Introduction

In the past, I have followed Fake News coverage of migrant caravans moving away from Central American countries, making their way through Mexico and into the United States. Several of these movements of mass numbers of humans took place during the Obama administration. A lot of these people ended up in California, which thanks to the current liberal stranglehold has become a Sanctuary State to illegal migrants.

To a greater extent, I have followed the floods of illegal migrations of Arabs and Africans into Europe. I had more sources this time, better sources than Fake News. They included independent news media and your Average Joe (or Jane) walking down the street with his or her cell phone recording the action as it was happening live. This is how I found out that those poor, peaceful Muslims were not what they seemed. Fake News tried to minimize, because they could not longer contain and hide, the harrowing events of Cologne, Germany, during a New Year's celebration where dozens of Anglo women were attacked, groped and raped by Allah's enthusiastic emissaries of peace. The Muslim horde has made Sweden the rape capital nation of the world, but they can't really talk about it, or else liberal dogs will slander them as racists, xenophobes or Islamophobes. Afflicted countries such as England, France and Germany have made it a Hate Crime to criticize liberal policies and for independent news to report the Truth.

Fake News and social media giants such as AOL, Facebook, Google / Youtube, Twitter, Yahoo, and many, many others, have followed this trend where blatant and unremorseful censorship is the new norm.

I first became aware of the Honduran invasion horde in the second or third week of October, when the illegal migrants were beginning to mass up in northern Guatemala, just south of the Mexican border. I watched live as they stormed past Guatemalan border guards and gates, crowded onto the single bridge leading into Mexico, and again watched live as the horde attacked Mexican authorities, broke through their barriers, or swam across the river to invade Mexico.

I don't watch Fake News anymore, or at least I keep away from it as much as possible. The coverage I watched from the Honduran invasion into Mexico came from mainstream Mexican or Latin American news sources. I have several news stations that I referred to, such as Caracol and Milenio, during the times when I was keeping up with the various volcanoes going off in Central America, such as Guatemala's Fuego disaster, the badly built hydroelectric dam Hidroutango in Colombia, and the on the worsening political situation in Maduro's Venezuela.

When Fake News was starting to cover the crisis at the southern Mexican border, I was appalled to see the same liberal / socialist bias I'd seen in Europe during the Arab and African invasion. Every single major news outlet: Milenio, Telemundo, Televisa, Univision and especially TeleSUR, and more, had jumped on the socialist bandwagon. All of these Fake News channels interviewed mostly young women holding or posing beside their children, painting a picture of poverty and desperation, and how it was God's will that these people look for greater opportunities in the land of milk and honey up north, the United States. This was an incredible contradiction to what their video footage presented; the majority of the illegal migrant caravan was made up of young men of military age (18 through 40), and they weren't very peaceful when they were attacking Guatemalan and Mexican authorities with rocks and Molotov cocktails. This was the same liberal run-around we saw during the invasion of Europe by hostile migrants, who were painted out to be poor, peaceful, hungry and really nice.

Ever since I can remember, and this goes back to the mid-1980s, Mexico has never been a country that tolerates honest, open journalism. Corrupt politicians and drug cartels routinely and blatantly murder judges, cops, lawyers, activists and reporters. I am happy to say that a lot of this suppression has gone away. As I was keeping up with the horde as it moved throughout Mexico, even Youtube's biased algorithms could not prevent me from finding dozens of independent reporters out there on the streets and roads, recording and interviewing the illegal migrants firsthand. Anyone with a cell phone can now be an on the ground reporter, and anyone with a camera and a recording microphone can have their own makeshift news studio. I found several seasoned independent journalists, and quite a few young men, even teenagers, who were politically inclined and honest enough to show what was really going on, that Fake News was keeping under wraps.

Who better to report on a major news story in Mexico, than Mexicans? I am lucky enough to be bilingual in the US, a country where many of its citizens can't handle more than one language, and where I know many Latinos who can barely speak Spanish, including my ex-wife and her siblings. Because of my fluency, I avoided most English-language reports and concentrated primarily on Spanish independent news as the various caravans made their way through Mexico.

I have watched dozens, if not hundreds, of reports and commentaries, some only a couple of minutes long, others hours long, focusing on the Honduran caravan. The video titles found in the Sources section of this report are only a small sample, included because they had the most up to date news at the time. So much has happened, and so much is still happening right now, that it was impossible to encompass and encapsulate everything that has transpired ever since October 12, 2018, when the first caravan was formed in a shopping center in San Pedro Sula, Honduras.

Background

Who is to blame for the migrant crisis? This question, if truthfully analyzed, requires a very complex answer. Most independent news will point the finger at George Soros and his Open Society policies, or on the United Nations Compact for Global Migration, but the truth is far deeper and older than that. Unfortunately, we humans live in a binary world. We can only grasp two primary forms of government. To the one side, we have the greedy imperialist / capitalists / materialists who pillage the resources of Third World countries. On the other side, we have the naive socialists who claim they want to get those resources back for the common people, but their leaders always end up hoarding most of the wealth for themselves while their people end up poor and starving. That is all the typical human mind can handle, apparently: the political left, and the political right.

The imperialists have a bad habit of using covert assets and agencies, such as the CIA, to depose national leaders from countries in Africa, Asia and South America. The socialist Latin American countries, especially in northern South America, look to their military hero Simon Bolivar, a Spaniard who rebelled against colonialism and helped to free the territories that eventually became Venezuela, Colombia and Ecuador. Mexico's new president Obrador also praises Bolivar's political leanings. In a nutshell, many Latin countries will stick together, even if their leaders and people don't get along, and all of them want American and European interests kicked out. This is why you see Venezuela siding with Russia and China, and why Russia and China have publicly stated they will invest heavily in Obrador's Mexico. The political left and right are always wrestling with one another for control of the world. That's just the way it is, folks.

Venezuela has a big part to play in the advent of the Honduran caravans. President Maduro is, by all accounts, not a good man. Who should go in there to replace him? It seems the world's policeman, the United States, wants that job. For the last few years, including part of Obama's term, the US has been actively trying to disrupt Venezuela. Right wing terrorists from Colombia, who are backed by Western interests, sneak into Venezuela to blow up power plants and leave the country with no electricity. Western nations and OPEC colluded to drastically lower the price of oil, which devastated Venezuela's economy. We have greedy capitalists, Jews, who are in international court trying to get their hands on Venezuela's oil reserves and also its gold mines, which are the fourth largest in the world. In the middle of November, we saw the Bank of England, run by the Rothschild family, confiscate 500 million dollars' worth of Venezuelan gold. We also had rumblings from the White House, where Adon Trump and VP Pence pointed their fingers at Venezuela, citing the usual lies of humanitarian crisis and freeing the people for democracy, as an excuse for American military intervention. The US and Colombia were hinting at the use of military force. Puerto Rico even said they were willing to be the staging point for the attack.

What does this have to do with Central America and Mexico? Well, everything. The same way the imperialists are continually poking at the socialist dog with a sharp stick, the socialists want to bare their teeth and snap back. Leftist nations from Mexico all the way down to the southern tip of South America don't want US troops in Venezuela, and they will do anything they can to impede it. This includes deceiving the poor and easily led from Central American countries to migrate north, as a way to embarrass Trump. Remember what I mentioned about Simon Bolivar; the Latin American countries don't want the US or Europe meddling into their borders.

Enter people like George Soros, who is not so much an initiator, but a facilitator. He can see the divide between the left and right, and his goal is to make that divide wider. Human lives are incidental, and manipulated as a means to an end. This is what Soros and his Open Society foundations did in Europe, and in the US during Obama's term, and he's doing it again. He's got the European Union and the United Nations on his side, in his corrupt ambition for globalization and a New World Order, and national leaders such as England's May, Germany's Merkel and France's Macron are on board, and so was the incredibly corrupt Hillary Clinton, who promised to do away with the US border the first day of her term, if she got elected. Thank God she didn't!

That's how things were looking, right before the caravan crisis first started up. Let's see how things got rolling along.

Honduran Origins

The first caravan formed on Friday, October 12, 2018, in San Pedro Sula, Honduras. The time was 8:00 AM. We know this because a flyer was passed out to locals. The flyer is titled Walk Of The Migrant. An image of the flyer was posted on the Facebook page of former government deputy Bartolo Fuentes. The flyer shows the image of a man's back, with his arms outstretched to the sides, with a red background. To the bottom edge of the flyer, we see a signpost showing the word Mexico. The text of the flyer:

We will accompany these people. It is regretful that there are no institutions in Honduras that can support us to avoid that the migrants do not lose their orientation, or fall into danger. Let us at least support their exit. We decry the terrible situation we are living in inside Honduras: unemployment, insecurity, poverty. And those we protest against persecute us or shoot live rounds.

Reports have circulated that other leftist Honduran politicians were backing and encouraging the forming of caravans. Newspapers and TV news media picked up the story right away, drawing more attention and people to the caravan. Media exposure, or possibly even complicity, mirrors the way similar caravans formed during the Obama administration. The biggest difference is that back then, the Catholic Church was also pushing for mass migration, but I didn't see that taking place this time.

A camera crew from Skylight Engagements was present on October 19, 2018, when the first caravan reached the northern border of Guatemala. We know this because they tweeted about it and included images. According to his tax return for 2016, George Soros provided 'general support' for Skylight in the amount of one million dollars, under the guise of Foundation To Promote Open Society. Skylight is based in Brooklyn, New York. Their website is found at skylight.is. Through their tweets, we can clearly see that Skylight is associated with Soros' Open Society.

By the way, the 500 page Soros' tax return also funded social organizations that participated in the DACA and Kavanaugh protests, as well as transgender equality and projects that would allow illegal immigrants to get the right to vote faster. According to Fake News, it is a conspiracy theory to think that Soros had anything to do with the Honduran caravans.

Two other factors come into play here, to facilitate the movement of these caravans through multiple nations and into Mexico. The first one comes from the United Nations. It is an initiative called Global Compact For Migration. This document calls for the resettlement of 294 million migrants, ignoring national laws, into countries Canada, Europe and the US. 294 million people; compare that number to the estimated population of the United States of 315 million.

An article from Neon Nettle, dated November 24, 2018, shows the headline:

Hungary Slams UN Migration Pact For Trying To Legalize Illegal Immigration

Hungarian foreign minister Peter Sijarto states Hungary will vote against the UN pact in December. The pact is scheduled for a vote of approval by many UN-supportive countries on December 10 and 11, in Marrakesh, Morocco. The pact is a global initiative pushing for mandatory resettlement quotas. It is a threat on national sovereignty and national borders.

The compact claims it is not legally binding, but Dutch MEP official Marcel De Graaf states: "It is still the legal framework on which the participating countries commit themselves to build."

According to the pact, migration is a basic human right. Countries that refuse forced or illegal migration will be criticized. This criticism could be considered Hate Speech and prohibited by law. We are already seeing this in Mexico, where critics of the caravans are being accused of Hate Speech on social media.

"It will become impossible to criticize (Germany's Angela) Merkel's 'welcome migrants' politics without being at risk to be jailed for hate speech." De Graaff added.

Merkel's idea is that countries should be prepared to give up control of their borders to the European Union. Why do you think Britain is having so much trouble with Brexit?

Criticizing forced migration could become a criminal offense, if it falls under Hate Speech. We have seen this in Europe already, where critics and independent reporters are fined and jailed for pointing out Islamic corruption and savagery, or for questioning the validity of the Jewish Holocaust. This scheme of Jewish victimization has been prevalent in modern society ever since World War II. Look at all the people who have claimed to be victims: feminists, gays, transgenders, Muslims and now everybody who lives in a Third world country. Just as it is discouraged to say a black African raped a white Norwegian, it will be discouraged to say that illegal migrants will tax a country's welfare system, or to say that forced migration will lead to a surge of robbery, rape and murder.

As of the early writing of this article, the following nations have refused to sign the UN Pact: Australia, Hungary and the Dominican Republic. (The list has grown to 10 countries as of December 10, 2018.) Former head of state Obama had the US on that same track, but Adon Trump has later rejected it. An estimated 120 to 190 nations are expected to sign the Pact. (You should also know that George Soros is presently suing his birth nation of Hungary, for going against the illegal Open Borders policy.)

Along with the UN's Pact, the second factor that comes into play is the official Constitution of the United States of Mexico. The constitution was heavily reformed in 2017, putting Mexico in line with the policies of the United Nations. Mexican law must now conform with international treaties. Human rights are set above national laws, and Mexico is forced to follow United Nations so-called progressiveness.

Let me ask you this. Who formed the short-lived League Of Nations, and later tried a second time to create the United Nations? That would be the Zionist / Jewish cartels, led by the Rothschild banking family. You may have heard the idea that Jewish bankers fund both sides of a war, where both the victors and defeated end up owing them great debts. Is it a coincidence that the International Monetary Fund and the World Health Organization are also putting countries into huge debt that cannot be repaid, the same way most people have trouble paying off their credit cards? Is it a coincidence that Soros is described as a non-practicing Jew, yet he follows Zionist principles to the letter, or that Trump magically decided to convert to Judaism right after he was inaugurated, possibly as a deterrent to assassination by the global banking families?

You can't correctly say that the New World Order is also the Jew World Order, because that would be inaccurate. You still have to factor in the Masons, the Vatican and a few other multinational groups as well. What you can say is that a whole lot of Jews are involved in this idea that the United Nations should control the world and its economy, and that the road is being paved to allow a significant portion of a Third World country's population to pick up their bags and invade a richer Western nation.

October, Southern Mexico

The first caravan left Honduras on October 12, with an estimated 150 people in it. As the caravan marched on, and partially due to media coverage, more and more people joined. Some claim to have walked for the entire seven days to reach the northern border of Guatemala. Others said they took buses. A short video has surfaced from Honduras, where some twenty to thirty women were lined up in rows. Two men wearing white shirts and jeans, with handguns tucked into their waistbands, walked down the row passing out money to the women. The money was used to procure rides on buses, allegedly. Who were those men, why did they have guns and why did they give away money? Does that sound like a spontaneous, grass roots event, like Fake News tells us?

October 14 - Milenio reports that Mexico will not allow any immigrants to enter its territory without proper visas. The office of Governance Of Foreign Relations states that visas must be obtained through proper channels, at consulates and not at the Mexican border. The caravan is estimated to consist of 2,000 people.

October 16 - Proceso reports that Mexico's National Institution Of Immigration (INM) is sending federal officers to the southern border. Their orders were to prevent the Honduran caravan from entering into Mexican territory. Other reports give the number of officers sent at 500.

Already, concerns are raised over the safety of the immigrants, and the possibility of Maras / MS-13 gang members infiltrating the caravan. Another worry is that migrants will enter Mexico without having their identity verified. Secretary of Governance Alfonso Navarrete Prida is blamed for allowing the caravan to reach Mexico in the first place, when, had he acted sooner, he might have stalled it out before it left Honduras or when it first entered Guatemala.

March 21, 2018 - From an article in Milenio, we learn that Mexico City has an average of 350,000 Colombians living there, most of them illegally, up from a previous average of 90,000. Mexican Chief Of Government Miguel Mancera stated that advanced biometric measures should have been implemented at the southern border a long time ago. Political haggling and bureaucratic red tape have hampered those efforts. Under the current processing, he said it is possible for one person to enter Mexico under three or four different names.

Immediately after the 500 federal agents arrived in Tapachula, Chiapas, at the southern border, president-elect Manuel Obrador made a stunning reversal. The agents were told by current President Pena-Nieto to STOP the caravan's entry into Mexico. Basically, Pena-Nieto gave up his presidential powers early, a month and a half before Obrador's inauguration, scheduled for December first. Obrador announced he would make work visas available to the Honduran foreigners. Obrador promises government benefits to migrants beginning when he takes power on December first.

“Anyone who wants to work in our country, will have our support.” - Obrador

Aristegui News reports that Obrador will also create a new civil defense force, to work independently from municipal police and directly under the Mexican military. Mexico is to be divided into 265 new zones, with federal, military and naval police assigned to monitor them based on the guidelines of an index that was not specified.

October 16 - El Sol De Mexico reports that the Secretary of Governance has told Commissioned General of the Federal Police, Manelich Castiall, to ALLOW the migrant caravan entry into Mexico.

October 16 - Televisa reports the caravan will have free passage through the state of Chiapas.

Understandably, many Mexican voters are upset at the reversal. Complaints are publicized on independent news and social media. Reporters speculate that human and drug smugglers are already working out smuggling corridors through Mexico, if they can move migrants along without having their identifications verified. The number of migrants is now estimated at 4 to 5,000.

October 18, 2018 - El Universal reports President Trump will send troops to secure the southern US border. Trump makes the unspecified claim that many criminals are already traveling in the caravan.

October 18, 2018 - Conciencia Radio reports the caravan number at 7,000. After forcing their way past Guatemalan border defenses, the caravan is temporarily stopped on the bridge between Guatemala and Mexico. CR reporter Alex Backman speculates that George Soros is behind the movement.

October 19, 2018 - Caravan leader Walter Coelho tells news media that the migrants are looking for work and better lives. Coelho clearly states the migrants are NOT heading to the United States, but are planning to stay in Mexico. Coelho states that migrants ‘don’t want to steal,’ implying they would if they had to.

We are already hearing this theme from many of the migrants interviewed, as if they have been coached into giving certain answers. The vast majority of migrants are saying the same few things: we are good people, we are looking for work, our country is very violent, it is God’s will that we continue this march and God will take us to the end.

On many occasions, caravan leaders and organizers in neon green vests are standing near or next to migrants during these interviews. Most Fake News is deliberately NOT showing the organizers during the march, focusing their footage on pedestrians, and especially on women, children and families. We do see the organizers during caravan upheavals, standing on roofs or vehicles with megaphones, shouting orders to and instigating mob mentality.

Conciencia Radio reports that 99% of its comments on social media are against the Honduran invasion, while Fake News tells us most Mexicans approve of it.

Nicaraguans and Salvadorans are now mixed in with Hondurans. The caravan numbers at 8,000 people, with more caravans forming in Honduras and El Salvador. Already, illegal migrants are avoiding the Mexican border crossing by wading across the River Suchiate between both countries.

News media source Lopez-Doriga shows a headline stating that US President Trump has offered Mexico 20 million dollars to halt the migrant caravan. Mexico's Secretary Of Governance Navarrete Prida reportedly turned the offer down. The information for this article comes from an interview with Prida, conducted by Radio Formula. Prida also stated at the time that he was hopeful 6 million migrants would enter Mexico. So far, Mexican authorities had initiated only 200 official requests for asylum, out of an estimated 8,000 illegal migrants. This gives rise to the suspicion that the majority of migrants did not want to register or identify themselves.

Lopez-Doriga also mentions that women, children and older people were placed at the front of the caravan deliberately, when the mob first began pushing at Mexican defenses.

October 23, 2018 - President Trump threatens to cut off financial aid to Honduras and El Salvador, for their complicity in allowing the caravans to form and leave their countries. (US financial aid to Honduras in 2016 was 128 million taxpayer dollars.)

Previously, we heard of Honduran leftist and former government deputy Bartolo Fuentes. He was the guy that posted the original caravan flyer on his Facebook page. Now, reports are emerging that Fuentes is associated with leftist groups from Venezuela. Remember what I said about Venezuela at the start, where that country feared an invasion by Colombia and the US. According to the reports, Fuentes is actively encouraging new caravans to form up, and Venezuela is providing unspecified support to keep things going.

In the US, a lot of negative criticism was falling on George Soros and his socialist Open Borders organizations. Something had to be done about that, and it was! It was at this time that Soros, the repulsive Clintons and the repulsive Obamas got fake bombs in the mail. US Fake News media sensationalized the reports, but nobody bothered to ask for video evidence of the bombs being delivered to Soros' doorstep. The guy is a multi-millionaire who lives in a large mansion, and being that he is a notorious figure, are you telling me that he doesn't have surveillance cameras? This hoax took place one week before midterm elections.

October 26, 2018 - The headline from periodical Zeta reads:

“We are a force of thousands and we are going to Tijuana.”

The migrant count had swelled up to 15,000. Trump ordered 1,000 troops to secure the US border (Another article cited 1,500.). According to Conciencia Radio, several American militia groups supported the president's decision and were planning on traveling to the US border themselves.

Concerned Mexican and US independent reporters started taking a closer look at the 'poor, disheveled migrants.' In general, the invaders were bathed and groomed. Many men wore new or almost new ball caps, jackets, shirts and backpacks. The women were also clean and dressed in good clothing. People have pointed out how new their shoes looked, and how many of the migrants were so dirt poor, but at the same time they were using expensive cell phones.

Whenever the caravan moved, they left industrial amounts of garbage behind, including trash, empty food containers, water bottles, and most dubiously, a tremendous amount of donated clothing and bedding materials. This means they were given money to purchase new clothes and bedding while they were on the move, so they simply dropped their old stuff on the street and started walking again.

October 26, 2018 - US Vice President Pence states Venezuelan interests are behind the funding of the caravans. US ambassador to Honduras Mike Pompeo repeats the same thing.

We start hearing a new quote from the illegal migrants, who are saying that 30,000 of them are on their way to destroy Trump's wall. Note that this figure of 30,000 will make the rounds all the way to Mexico's northern border city of Tijuana. Many migrants are repeating this figure, again, as if they were coached into saying it.

So far, only 1,400 migrants have registered and applied for asylum in southern Mexico, out of an estimated 15,000. I want to reiterate that many migrants were refusing to be identified, and this allows the criminal element to filter into the caravans. This will become an obvious problem later.

October 26, 2018 - Zeta reports that many Hondurans are fleeing the right wing government run by president J. Orlando Hernandez, inferring that the majority of migrants are siding with the left.

Honduran reporter Denys Paredes claims he has left his family behind, while they were in a financial bind, those were his words, to join the caravan. Along with many others, he is quoted as saying the caravan will reach Tijuana as a force of 30,000.

Rumors circulated that a new caravan of 13,000 people was forming in El Salvador.

Unnamed US intelligence sources estimated 90% of the migrants were male and of military age, from 18 to 35 years old. Socialist Fake News reports typically showed women holding or sitting with children, or pushing baby strollers.

Alex Backman from Conciencia Radio accurately predicts strife in Playas De Tijuana when the horde reaches Tijuana, about 3 weeks before it happened. Backman also reports that Tijuana already has an illegal population of 6,000 Haitians.

Another count estimates the caravan number at 17,000, with only a tenth of them actually applying for legal asylum.

Televisa reports that on October 26 migrants have set fire to an INM immigration station in Pijijiapan, Chiapas. The fire was started deliberately in the men's section of the station. 21 men, 5 women and 3 children were staying there, waiting to be deported.

October 28, 2018 - Invaders break through the southern Mexican border. Reports state shots were fired and rocks were thrown at Mexican federal police. Videos show migrant terrorists throwing rocks at authorities and helicopters, while shouting anti-Mexican slurs and holding up Honduran flags. A terrorist warns an independent reporter not to record video in a certain direction, because that was where the terrorists were busy preparing Molotov cocktails. Two terrorists were arrested with weapons.

The estimated numbers are: 17,000 for the first caravan, 13,000 for the second caravan in El Salvador, and a new third caravan in Guatemala numbering at 2 to 3,000. Organizers are quoted as saying they want to increase the caravan to 100,000 strong.

At least two migrants have died so far from accidents. The true numbers have been suppressed, as several migrants say they've seen others falling from exhaustion, from the burden of walking several days in weather over ninety degrees F.

October 31, 2018 - Fake News focuses on the migrant caravan, while ignoring other crisis issues in Mexico. Victims from the September 2017 earthquake in Mexico City are still homeless and jobless. Hurricane Willa, plus the heavy rains and flooding that came before and after, have affected 120,000 to 185,000 Mexicans in the states of Nayarit, Michoacan, Oaxaca, Sinaloa and Sonora. No massive donation or fund drive or publicity took place for those affected people. They are homeless, jobless, and struggling for food. University graduates are unable to find jobs. Fake News doesn't care about that, because they're too busy pushing the UN agenda, the same as when they pushed 'peaceful' Islam on European countries.

Early November

From a video clip: Honduran trespassers have broken past Mexican border defenses. They are throwing rocks and pulling down gates, while Mexican federal police stand by and do very little to stop them. One terrorist says that because the caravan has lost women and children already, they come in peace, but if Mexico refuses them entry, they will resort to violence. He says this as masked terrorists are throwing rocks behind him.

A second video clip: Terrorists insult Mexican federal police by calling them culeros, or assholes. Terrorists throw rocks at a Mexican military helicopter that flies in low. We see a tremendous amount of trash wherever the invasion has passed through.

According to Secretary of Governance Navarette Prida, the invaders are NOT violating any national laws.

Ironically enough, a few days later Prida reports that two armed Honduran men have been arrested after attacking federal police. The incident occurred in Zaragoza, Hidalgo, Chiapas, while the police were escorting the caravan for their safety, during Operation Walker. Carlos N is 17, and Jerson N is 22. They are both Maras / MS-13 gang members, as evidenced by their gang tattoos. They were armed with a Glock handgun and 9 clips of ammunition. The only reason no police were hurt was because the gun jammed up on the gang members.

Fake News begins calling critical Mexicans racists and xenophobes, simply for protesting what they've seen and heard on independent news channels. They are not reporting that migrants are coming into Mexico with tropical diseases such as Chagas, Dengue Fever and also Tuberculosis. 7,000 migrants get stalled out in the state of Oaxaca, while the second caravan of 13,000 Salvadorans is still on its way. The third caravan is still forming in Guatemala.

Historically speaking, certain things occur when mass migrations take place. In past ages, for example, bandits would hide by the roadside, waiting for merchant caravans or pilgrims to ambush. People would be captured and held for ransom, or sold off as slaves. That sort of ugliness took place in Mexico as the caravan marched along. The drug cartels and criminal elements were already doing this before, but they were getting a boon this time. Instead of having to deal with a dozen or so potential victims at a time, they now had thousands to prey upon.

The Mexican government announced that it would allow peaceful entry to these unlawful migrants, as long as the migrants registered their identities. Ever since the big standoff at the Guatemalan and Mexican borders, we have seen that many migrants are refusing to give their identities. Even before they reached northern Guatemala, hundreds of young men were marching with their faces covered. Central American drug traffickers will jump at the chance to put a backpack full of cocaine on a migrant's back. The mules will get free entry into Mexico, and possibly a free ride to Mexico City, where the largest drug smuggling networks are located.

That's not the worst of it. Human traffickers will lead their bands of half a dozen or more people, taking advantage by hiding among the caravan, until they reach their transfer points. At least four times, I heard of migrant 'families' splitting apart. In Veracruz, a supposed mother abandoned her two young daughters in a shelter, and in Oaxaca, a man left his wife and children, saying he would meet them at the US border. This leads researchers like myself to speculate that these families are fictions. Why would a husband leave his wife stranded in a foreign country? Why would a mother travel with children that are not hers? The likelihood is that women and children are being trafficked by pretending to be part of families, when they have not produced any documentation to prove they are even related.

Kidnappers have a small industry in Chiapas, where they imprison migrants and house them in isolated areas. The ransom to release these people usually ranges from two to five thousand dollars per person. A raid by Mexican police might find ten to twenty victims imprisoned in a single house. With thousands of people passing through their turf, I estimate there might be a thousand or more unlucky immigrants in captivity right now, thanks to this socialist caravan ploy. The reality of it is that migrant men are being kidnapped or killed, and migrant women and children are disappearing. This is in addition to the unfortunates that have died from exhaustion.

Here is a shocking statistic for you. At the Benito Juarez sports complex in Tijuana, the administrators counted 190 refugee children, between the ages of 11 and 14, who had come from Central America with no parents and unsupervised.

Baja California governor Enrique De La Vega is conspicuously staying out of the limelight. Conservatives criticize him for not stepping up to address the problem, much less do anything to stop the caravans. Critics of George Soros and Open Borders are now being called anti-Semites. I must remind the reader that Soros is a wanted man in Hungary, the country he was born in. Does that make Hungary anti-Semite?

This is how absurd the socialist accusations of anti-Semitism have become. On February 4, 2018, the Times Of Israel ran the headline 'Netanyahu: George Soros Behind Bid To Thwart Migrant Deportations.' In the article, the Times accused Netanyahu of taking part in the 'anti-Semitic' Hungarian campaign against Soros. Are you kidding me? Netanyahu is the head of state of Israel, obviously a Jew, and a Jewish publication has the gall to accuse him of being anti-Semitic?

Along with Soros, Cuba and Venezuela are also seen as likely culprits for funding the caravans. Note that Mexico's Secretary of the Interior has announced Venezuela's president Maduro will be attending the inauguration of Mexico's president-elect Obrador on December first.

The illegal migrants might not even qualify for asylum, but incoming president Obrador wants them anyway. Obrador claims he needs the Hondurans for his ambitious Train Maya project, because poor Hondurans are much better qualified for Mexico's big construction projects than poor Mexicans. Obrador also plans to give Hondurans 'field jobs.' These people already had field jobs in Honduras, so why would they want to work in the same jobs in another country? They were fed up with their field jobs, and that's why they left! Imagine how bad it would be if the Hondurans reached the US, with no job skills, no education and no fluency in English.

Other current news included President Trump's decision to sign an Executive Order disallowing Anchor Babies, or US birth right to children of illegal immigrants. Strangely enough, this problem also occurs in Mexico. Many pregnant Haitian women fly into the country to have their babies on Mexican soil. The mothers return to Haiti, but when their children grow up, the children claim Mexican citizenship and apply to have their families move into Mexico. Trump also announced plans to send 10 to 15,000 troops to secure the border.

In 2018, so far illegal immigration into the US had increased by 25%. 30 million illegal immigrants live in the US, realistically, contrasting the number of 11 million tossed out by Fake News reporters like Univision's Jorge Ramos. The murder rate in Mexico is 24 per 1,000 of its population. In Honduras, it is 60 per 1,000. Just by entering Mexico, migrants are increasing their chances of getting murdered.

I haven't researched this yet, but Conciencia Radio reports MS-13 gang members smuggled nuclear weapons into Mexico in the 1990s.

November 1, 2018 - With the cold of winter approaching, refugee centers in Tijuana are already full. Frontera reports that 14 centers in Mexicali can house 500 people. They are already at capacity. The refugee centers in Tijuana can only hold 150 women and children, and are also full. Open-air camps are planned for the coming influx of migrants.

A first wave of migrants, about 80 of them, has broken away from the main horde in Mexico City. They traveled by train to arrive in Mexicali, Mexico, bordering Calexico in the United States. This is the LGBT mob that later earned notoriety in Playas De Tijuana, under the guidance of their leader, transgender pimp Pritaya Queen. We will read more about him / her in the Offenders section of this article.

As Fake News continues to downplay the severity of the horde, 5,500 people are still stuck in Oaxaca, after easily getting through Chiapas. Caravan leaders began demanding public transportation to the US border, because their feet were sore and they were tired of walking. 70% of the caravan planned to travel to Tijuana, numbering at around 4,900. They include people from El Salvador Guatemala, Honduras and Nicaragua.

Mexico's new Minister of the Interior, Olga Sanchez-Cordero, offers 1 million work visas to the foreign invaders. She completely ignores over 100,000 displaced, homeless and jobless Mexican people who suffered from Hurricane Willa. The foreigners will receive social security numbers and legal status allowing them to remain in Mexico.

A full month before he is officially named president of Mexico, Obrador cancels the huge, multi-million dollar construction project for a new airport in Texcoco, Mexico City. Instead, the new airport will be placed inside the military base at Santa Lucia. Yes, readers, you read right; the new airport will have civilians standing alongside soldiers, and commercial airliners possibly alternating taking off with military jets from the Mexican air force. What could go wrong with that scenario? To make sure nothing does go wrong, Obrador promises to add two new runways, and problem solved! Further, Obrador calms dissenters by announcing that several countries will soon begin investing in Mexico, to make up for the huge contracts that were voided out at Texcoco. Those countries later turn out to be Russia and China.

Water issues are a big concern in Mexico City. So far, bad plumbing has caused a disruption of 5 days without running water. Mexico City, including the Valley of Mexico, has 17 million people living in it. Mexico City is without water now, and the caravans in Oaxaca and Veracruz are planning to go there next.

3,500 Salvadorans arrive at the southern Mexican border, along with a new bunch of leaders and organizers. This second caravan arrived in buses. We still hear proposed numbers of migrants at either 30,000 or 100,000.

In late October, President Trump and other US government sources hinted that bad people were infiltrating the caravans. US intelligence is calling them SIAs, or Special Interest Aliens. These are people to watch out for, including political radicals and people with known criminal associations.

November 5, 2018 - Mexican authorities have become impotent in stemming the flow of invaders at the southern border.

Judicial Watch, an organization that keeps tabs on political corruption, sends reps to Honduras to document the formation of caravans. They discover a highly funded and organized operation led by Non-Governmental Organizations (NGOs) such as Open Borders, who are backed by George Soros. JW points out that women and children are being put at the front of the caravans to elicit public sympathy and support.

Judicial Watch documents that criminals are embedded in the caravans. These include known human traffickers and gang members. Their opinion is that Honduras is deliberately sending their worst people into the caravans as a way to get them out of the country. (On December 7th, I watched an interview with a Guatemalan migrant who was then in Playas De Tijuana. He stated he was a wanted criminal already in his country and in the US. Unable to apply for asylum normally, this 24 year-old man was waiting for his opportunity to cross the border illegally.) The wife of a member of JW claims she witnessed the first caravan being formed in a shopping mall, in San Pedro Sula, Honduras, on October 12.

5,000 invaders arrive in Mexico City. They were transported on buses paid for by the Mexican government. The second caravan of over 3,000 Salvadorans arrives in Oaxaca, where the first caravan just departed from. The second caravan has already had confrontations with Mexican authorities. The third caravan refuses to show identification at Mexico's southern border.

I have heard that at least two Mexican federal officers have been killed so far, and I watched a video of a policeman being beaten in Chiapas. I don't have further details on this; I may add them in later if I have the time. US border agents in Laredo, Texas, are busy reinforcing the border and cleaning up the Rio Bravo.

Fake News sticks to its script. It does not disclose that Mexico cannot easily or smoothly absorb so many invaders. These caravans were planned for months or even years in advance, as seen when similar caravans emerged during the Obama years. So far, only Guatemala publicly states the caravans are not forming spontaneously. This country also emphasizes the caravans are made up mostly of men in their twenties. Many of the invading men have left their wives and children behind. Guatemala states it is doing all it can to stop the flux of invaders and deporting them.

Some migrants say they are willing to stay in Veracruz, but later they go on their way to Mexico City. Unverified reports from Tepito and Aztec City, in Mexico City, claim that organized crime cartels plan to arm the caravan's criminals with AR-15 rifles and grenades. When they reach the US border, they will be heavily armed.

We have confirmations that along with Central American migrants, the caravans also include people from Africa, Bangladesh, China, the Near East and the Far East. 11 Cubans have been detained. Mixed in with the rest are Islamic extremists. These non-

Latinos received their passports from Venezuela, allowing them to travel into Honduras. On November 2, Daily Caller, Judicial Watch and Univision report that radical Muslims joined the caravan in Guatemala.

FBI documents show links between George Soros and key US political figures, who are facilitating migrant policy issues for Soros. Another FBI report gives details of a radical Muslim cell in Las Vegas. They were constructing C4 explosive devices for use against Mexican targets. Mexicans worry their country may soon become a target for terrorists.

Unnamed sources within the government of Baja California say governor De La Vega wants nothing to do with the caravans. He is hoping to leave office with a clean exit. Honduran president Hernandez claims his people were misled into becoming part of the caravans.

Early, small caravans arrive in Mexicali, on Mexico's northern border. Right away, the invaders begin complaining that the helpers in the refugee centers are mistreating them. This intensifies as time goes on, with many invaders leaving Mexicali to travel to Tijuana, where the biggest mobs will gather. One citizen report states that two Hondurans kidnapped a mother and her 10 year-old son at gunpoint, forcing the mother to drive the invaders to Tijuana. Thankfully, the mother and son were not harmed.

November 6, 2018 - Six large caravans are reported throughout Mexico. Mexico City cannot or will not give an accurate number of invaders, estimating them at between 4,500 and 5,500. Oaxaca and Veracruz are not giving estimates anymore.

Despite the water crisis in Mexico City, residents report migrants using potable water to bathe and wash their clothes, from emergency drinking reservoirs set out by the city. This angers many residents who have been rationing water for weeks.

While Fake News fawns over women and children:

Five Syrian men with stolen passports are arrested in Honduras.

Several intelligence and news sources, including Judicial Watch, observer MS-13 gang members traveling with the caravans.

Guatemala manages to turn back 2,000 invaders. Authorities capture a ring of child traffickers, rescuing 7 minors who were kidnapped and forced to travel with the caravans. President Morales asked the US for help in identifying leaders and organizers.

In Mexico City, volunteers greet the horde with massive amounts of food, clothing and bottled water, at refugee centers that include large sports stadiums. Obviously, this is a well-funded and organized effort. Mexico's National Institute of Migration (INM) reports that organizers are giving migrants packs of money.

The liberal party in Honduras, including former president Selayas, is criticized for encouraging people to leave the country. Former govt. deputy Bartolo Fuentes claims the caravans began spontaneously, when we have seen previously that he was one of the principal organizers.

Breitbart reports that 1,100 migrants are arrested in the US every day for crossing the border illegally. The annual total is 400,000. 300,000 Anchor Babies are born every year in the US, exceeding the number of births in the 48 continental states.

Human rights organizations continue to support the caravans despite their criminality, violence and disrespect for Mexican citizens.

Venezuela's former president Hugo Chavez would often rail about the evil, imperialistic United States, yet he still sent his daughters to be educated here.

Socialism - the philosophy of failure, the creed of ignorance, the gospel of envy - from a shirt worn by Alex Backman of Conciencia Radio

5,500 invaders were herded into a stadium in Mexico City, when the extended city of 17 million people was having disruptions in water service. Mexico spent 160 million pesos (roughly 800,000 dollars) on the failed water piping project. Apparently, a foreign firm was contracted to design, build and install the system of pipes. Later, Mexico in its grand wisdom decided it would butt in and have Mexican engineers finish putting it all together. As a result, the project failed miserably. During this time, Milenio news decided to downplay the water crisis. Instead, it covered public events taking place in other countries, most notably China, North Korea and Russia.

Unable to handle such a massive arrival of invaders, Mexico City reported a sharp rise in robberies and rapes.

After much negative criticism, George Soros tried to distance his involvement with the caravans.

Oaxaca still refused to transport the invaders.

Citizens in Veracruz attempted to record the caravan as it migrated over public roads. Invaders stopped their cars and forced Mexican citizens to turn over their phones. Videos and pictures of the caravan were erased before the phones were returned. The invaders would either force citizens to transport them in their vehicles, or they stole the cars outright and drove themselves. Where was Fake News during this time, but covering the poor, young mothers and their poor, young children?

A new caravan was forming in Brazil, which is pretty far from Central America. This new horde planned to pick up steam, and more invaders, as it traveled through Venezuela and Colombia.

November 8, 2018 - In Mexico City, 2,000 invaders break off from the main horde and head north for the United Nations embassy at Colonia Polanco. They are demanding asylum in Mexico, despite not meeting the required criteria.

Where is Mexico's political leadership during this time of crisis? Outgoing president Pena-Nieto is openly being called a coward and failure. Incoming Chief of Mexico Claudia Sheinbaum announces that the constitution of Mexico will be respected. Incoming Secretary of Governance Olga Sanchez-Cordero offers 1 million jobs to the migrants.

Breitbart had the following headline on November 6: MS-13 Member Arrested With Children Near Texas Border. The gang member was detained in a group of 12 migrants, including 2 children. Two days prior, two other criminals were detained in the same area, also attempting to cross the border.

Another Breitbart article reports three sex offenders were caught near the border in one day. This happened in Yuma, Arizona. One criminal was convicted of having sex with a minor in 2005. A second was convicted of misdemeanor rape in 2008.

The Daily Caller, on November 7, reported DHS officials informed the US senate of threats to national security found within the caravan. Members of the caravan have histories of violent crime, and are coming from non-Central American nations such as Western Asia, Central Asia and North Africa.

Rock-throwing illegal migrants murdered Border Patrol agent Rogelio Martinez in 2017.

Obama deported over 300,000 criminals into Mexico, via Tijuana. Many of those criminals are still walking Tijuana streets today.

The municipality of Ixtacalco, part of Mexico City, reports increased robberies and rapes.

Mexican Fake News is still not reporting the caravan's troublemakers. But they are reporting things like this: Bishop Jose Torres urged his congregation in Ciudad Juarez to tear down walls against migrants, in an article on Jew News.

Mid November

More caravans are forming to the south of Mexico. One caravan is stuck in Oaxaca, where the state refused to provide them with transportation.

A mob of 2,000 is stuck in Veracruz, also waiting for transportation. A sports facility / stadium there was overrun with migrants. The government provided food, water, clothing and medical aid. A female professor from Veracruz was robbed at knifepoint. Invaders are still taking people's cell phones away and erasing caravan videos, forcing drivers to give them rides, or pulling drivers out and stealing their cars.

Conciencia Radio reports that Russia will invest heavily in Mexico. Russia will take over six large factories, including one right across from the US border, in Mexicali. They will produce Mig jet fighters, tanks and armored vehicles. In return, Russia has promised to give 10% of its production to Mexico.

Captain Clay Higgins of the US Border Patrol informs us that Fake News reports say invaders are throwing small rocks at his agents. Higgins shows rocks the size of his fists, the true size of the projectiles, and he gives us a look at how heavily barred border patrol vehicles have been modified. He shows us the non-lethal weapons agents are equipped with, such as paint-ball guns, and tells us that if large rocks are thrown, agents will respond with lethal force.

Edgar Ramirez of Homeland Security states that under current international law, migrants cannot choose what country will help them. The UN must choose for them. This dispels the idea that Hondurans can walk north and demand entry into the US.

Incoming Immigration Director of Mexico, Guillen, may prioritize the human rights of the migrants over 'other' concerns. These other concerns could be Mexican laws on borders, and legal and illegal migration.

November 14, 2018 - Honduran young men throw rocks at Tijuana police and their vehicles, in Playas De Tijuana. Video shows the Hondurans were the aggressors. Fake News TeleSUR later blames Tijuana protesters.

The middle of November was a turning point for public sentiment in Mexico, when it came to the migrant caravan. Before this time, a lot of Mexicans were critical of the Honduran mob, but these people were largely silent in public because Fake News kept downplaying the horde's violence and referring to critics as being hateful, racists and xenophobes. Buses filled with hundreds of invaders did not drive to a refugee center where food, water and shelter were waiting for them. Instead they dumped their loads of unwanted people out in the open, in Playas De Tijuana, an area of mostly wealthy residents that can be compared to Coronado or La Jolla in San Diego.

Just a few days prior, the first wave of 80 LGBT invaders rented an expensive house in Playas, led by the infamous Pritaya Queen, whom you will read more about in the Offenders section. Residents who were already against the caravan were furious to have a bunch of unruly queers at their doorsteps, where they and their children could see them. Now, you can say that some Mexicans have been and still are homophobes, but in my opinion, people are entitled to form their own thoughts and views, and not to have to conform to the Political Correctness NPC group-think that is dividing many Western countries today. (See the NPC Non-Player Character meme for more on liberal group-think.) At any rate, the wealthy residents were irate to have queers in their neighborhood. Many videos circulated showing Pritaya Queen arguing with conservative older women, flaunting herself by shaking her head and waving her arms, and speaking to the women in a condescending tone.

Tijuanaans were already angry with the 80 members of the first wave, and now they had hundreds more invaders dropped off at Playas. Tijuanaans had already seen invaders throwing away food, water and clothing donations, leaving massive amounts of trash behind ever since they left Guatemala, demanding transportation, and stating it was their human right and God's will that they be welcomed into the United States. The situation that night at Playas was a powder keg that was about to go off.

It did go off. Angry protesters from many areas of Tijuana went to Playas to voice their dissent at the arrival of hundreds of migrants. This included the wealthy residents of Playas, as well as hundreds of lower income workers such as truck drivers and whatnot. Arguments got heated, with municipal police protecting the migrants and pushing away the protesters. Hondurans were flippant and aggressive, as ever since their departure from their country, no large group of opposition had ever stood against them. This attitude of self-righteousness angered the Mexican crowd even more. Mexicans were challenging Hondurans to go out on the beach for fistfights. A small group of MS-13 gang members jumped several young men protesting, by attacking them from behind. The Maras then threw up gang signs and called out their gang name. When the crowd reacted, police stood against the Mexicans.

I tend to look at things from historical perspectives. When the Muslim hordes invaded Europe, and they still are doing this, we had Third World tribal savages coming into First World domesticated societies, or wolves being introduced into herds of sheep. For the most part, Europeans have been slowly becoming docile ever since Hellenic Greece, the age of the philosophers, well over two thousand years ago. African and Arabian countries are still made up of clans and tribes with warlords today. Compare that to Hondurans illegally coming into Mexico. Only five hundred years ago, Aztecs were cutting hearts out of sacrificial victims. Indigenous peoples were completely tribal then. In Central America, we have seen bloody and recent civil wars, with dead bodies lying in the street where children can see them, and gangs like the Maras that attack each other with machetes. Only four countries, all Latin countries, account for 25% of the murders in the entire world: Brazil, Colombia, Venezuela and Mexico. In this case, wolves are being put into the same cage with other wolves. The face of Mexico, despite the claims from Fake News, became a face of anger at being invaded, and not of intolerance and racism as the liberal left would have us believe.

A Honduran tough thought it was a good idea to threaten Tijuana gang members. In public, he said more Hondurans were coming in other caravans. What are 30 pendejos, or idiots, going to do when 30,000 Hondurans arrive? After saying this, the tough also thought it was a good idea to walk in the neighborhood of those he'd just insulted. He was caught and beaten severely, and a video of his unconscious form was posted onto social media. That is the sort of hornet's nest that was stirred up, encompassing all of Tijuana society from the upper class in Playas to the lower class in Zona Norte. Seventy to eighty percent of Tijuana turned against the caravan.

Caravan leader Irineo Mujica of Towns (or Peoples) Without Borders, said migrants weren't bringing any problems into Tijuana. All the problems and violence were coming from the drug cartels. He said nothing about the wake of crime and violence that has followed the caravans ever since they entered Mexico.

In a very biased, anti-left video interview, Venezuelan journalist Gustavo Azucar Alcala made several noteworthy comments. Nobody doubted that Venezuela funded the first caravan. US Vice President Pence had documents to prove the financial support. Part of the reason the caravans were formed was to draw attention away from the exodus of millions of Venezuelans out of their country, and to deflect international attention away from president Maduro. Venezuela has no money for health care or education, or other social issues, but it does have money for propaganda against the US, including sending money to Cuba and purchasing weapons from Russia.

Maduro is tied in with drug cartels. A large amount of Colombia's drugs enter Venezuela through the rebel groups ELN and FARC. They are flown or shipped into Honduras, before they are moved through Mexico.

Alcala tells us thousands of children die in Venezuela due to poor health care. Over 6,000 doctors have left the country due to low wages. 6 to 8,000 Venezuelan refugees enter Colombia every day.

In Tabasco, Mexico, a woman with mental concerns is dragged by migrants onto a hill and sexually assaulted. In Zapotecas, women who had come to donate food had the migrants throw the food at them.

After the debacle at Playas De Tijuana, the Honduran horde is rounded up onto buses and taken to the Benito Juarez sports complex in Zona Norte, Tijuana.

Late November

November 20, 2018 - In Tijuana, a member of the Catholic clergy speaks to the horde over how some of them might end up in Canada. He encourages the single men to think about creating new families there, inferring that they will marry Canadian women. Caravan members are shown holding up a Canadian flag. I wonder where they got it?

A list of names and ages of caravan members show them all to be of military age, with most of them in their twenties.

Caravan leader Netty tells reporters he feels cheated after having arrived in Tijuana. At the start, he was told that when they arrived at the US border, officials from several countries would be there to meet with them. The countries include Canada, France, Spain and the US. The countries would offer citizenship and employment. Netty fears for his life after, admittedly having deceived the people who trusted and followed him. He refused to reveal who first gave him these ideas of easy citizenship and jobs, calling it a rumor.

Human rights activist Father Alejandro Solalinde accuses Pueblos Sin Fronteras of human trafficking. He accuses caravan leaders of deliberately providing a front for the smuggling of undocumented migrants, and of placing women and children at the front of their marches for increased media exposure. He states that he personally helped to register people from the third caravan, and that he disarmed many of them when he found out they were carrying firearms. Solalinde helped move 23 busloads into Mexico City. In a later interview, he stated he filled up 'two bags' with firearms.

Pueblos Sin Fronteras refused to allow Solalinde to finish processing the migrants. PSF told migrants to avoid or boycott Solalinde. The Father could not figure out who was financing the migration movement.

DEA officials arrest the brother of Honduran President Juan Orlando Hernandez in Miami, Florida, on charges of drug trafficking, weapons smuggling and organized crime. Juan Antonio Hernandez was wanted or implicated in 2016. The Honduran government never investigated the charges. This may explain how corrupt president Hernandez did very little to stop the caravans from initially leaving his country.

Fake News TeleSUR gives us the headline: March Threatened. It shows protests at the Benito Juarez sports complex in Zona Norte, Tijuana, calling protesters racists and xenophobes. The misleading reporter claims that a small number of agents provocateurs are among the crowd, fomenting violence, when it is really the angry people of Tijuana. The reporter says these same protesters were at Playas, which is true, and that they are against Tijuana police, which is not true. Further, the reporter tells us that it was people from Tijuana who threw rocks at police vehicles, when it was really the invaders.

The reporter goes on to state that dual citizens and Trump supporters are among the crowd inciting trouble, that Tijuans are throwing rocks at police, and that protesters are hiding their faces (only one person had their face masked during that part of the video). At least three times in a four minute clip, the reporter called Mexicans xenophobes and racists.

This protest took place on Sunday, the 18th, I believe, when the protesters marched from the Cuahatemoc roundabout in Plaza Rio, and a few miles northeast into Zona Norte. I followed this march live on two different independent news channels, including Conciencia Radio. Fake News, by the way, claimed the protest included anywhere from 25 to 200 members. In truth, the numbers were more like 1,500 or 2,000. Now I cannot say I watched every second of the march, as I was going back and forth between the two and both had technical difficulties at times, but I can say what I did and did not observe. It is true that Tijuans were angry, and they did push against police barriers and shout at the police. This was because the people were angry at having their concerns and complaints ignored, and not because they were fomenting violence. I did not see any rocks thrown, and I saw several protesters trying to keep the peace among themselves. I saw ONE Trump supporter. That was Paloma For Trump, who wore a red charro hat and a red dress, from the Youtube channel True Conservative Minutes. I observed a handful of people with their faces covered, and maybe these men were trying to start up violence. However, the protesters were quick to isolate them and push them away from the bulk of the crowd. TeleSUR's false reports on this and other events are as fake as the Fake News we get from CNN.

A Tijuana poll result indicated 70% of locals were against the invasion.

A police spokesman stated that the refugee camp at Juarez sports complex may get out of control quickly. Over 4,000 invaders were located there at the time. All he asks is that the invaders respect the rules given to them.

Police responded to a call that migrants were smoking marijuana at the sports complex, behind a children's play area. Police arrived and gave chase to four young men. Two were arrested. The crowd came in to defend the other two, who escaped. One cop was hurt after being hit on the head with a rock. The young men later claim they were innocent, and that the police roughed them up for no reason. Somebody else was smoking marijuana, they said, right where they were standing. Police said they witnessed the men smoking before they gave chase.

On the 25th of November, migrants planned a march to show their appreciation of what Tijuana and Mexico had done to help them. Secretary of Governance Prida assured the public this march would be peaceful. Children were shown painting banners and signs to that effect. However, the march very quickly turned into a mass stampede of humans trying to breach the US border. Fake News minimized the number of trespassers at 500, saying they only tried to run across the border at one place. In truth, I was watching the march on several independent news channels, as well as on live feeds by the major news stations. Most honest estimates give the true number of stampeding invaders at over 2000 attacking four different sections of the border fence, including at the border crossing, across the Rio Tijuana, on the train tracks east of the border and elsewhere. After being attacked by rocks and bottles, US Border Patrol responded by firing rubber bullets and tear gas into Mexico.

Later, Prida announced that Mexican federal authorities will ensure protesters will stay near refugee centers, as they have been roaming the streets in Zona Norte ever since they arrived. Several crowd agitators were targeted for arrest. The National Migration Institute (INM) will immediately deport any persons trying to cross the US border illegally, or breaking Mexico's laws.

Mexican police were largely unarmed during the march and stampede, to prevent the shooting or killing of a migrant, as it would have set off a wail of protests from across the liberal world. Liberal socialists will maintain that there is no such thing as an illegal migrant, and that the migrants were doing nothing wrong by storming the US border in such mass numbers that the border was shut down for some five hours.

November 26, 2018 - A Mexican political analyst speculates that the CIA may have infiltrated the migrant caravan. He gives various angles for this, including that this is part of a Marshal Plan from Trump, a plan the CIA wants to disrupt, and also that the CIA has uncovered the identities of many invaders who may have criminal backgrounds.

“Our feet are sore. We have no strength left.” - migrant

Fake News Tele-SUR makes more blatantly false claims. This time, they say the huge mess at the border started off as a peaceful march, where the invaders were simply showing their appreciation for the way Tijuana embraced them. In frustration for the slow speed asylum cases were moving in, these innocent people tried to rush across the border, where strong-armed US defenses used rubber bullets and tear gas on them. Notice there is no mention of how the caravan leaders agitated the stampede. Also not mentioned is the fact that caravan leaders deliberately put women and children at the front of the invasion.

Fake News was quick to capitalize, however, on a picture of a woman pulling her two twin daughters, both barefoot and in diapers, when the woman was attacked by tear gas. Also conveniently missing is the fact that only 10% of the invaders have actually applied for asylum.

The INM announced it would deport as many as 500 lawbreakers.

“All we want is an opportunity.” - An invader claims.

Three separate times, the invaders state they do not want to be here (in Tijuana). This sounds to be the new ‘coached’ line to say to news media, as everyone is repeating it. Really? They traveled the entire length of Mexico to a place they don’t want to be in?

The TeleSUR reporter compares the Juarez sports complex to a concentration camp. I’ve heard three people so far make that same statement. Do these people even know what a concentration camp is? Have they ever been to a homeless shelter? Of course, it’s all socialist propaganda.

Baja governor Enrique De La Vega makes a plea to then president Pena Nieto, for the caravan to comply with Mexican law. Vega has been largely out of sight and impotent during the entire crisis.

At the sports complex, a municipal police commander tells invaders not to put their women and children at the front of their movement, while a caravan leader stands at his side and denies this is happening.

US Border Patrol confirms that women and children were being used as human shields. Border Patrol Chief Rodney Scott states on CNN Fake News that border agents did not use tear gas and rubber bullets until after projectiles struck them. The attackers were throwing projectiles while standing behind the human shields. 69 invaders were arrested at the US border. Border Agent Hector Garcia also states agents and vehicles were attacked with rocks first. Meanwhile, Fake News claims the invaders are not invading, and they’re not doing anything wrong.

In another report, the US Border Patrol arrested 42 lawbreakers. Mexican federal police arrested 39.

President Trump threatens to shut the border permanently.

During the last week of November, migrants at the Juarez sports complex begin a hunger strike. This is a last ditch effort after the stampede was repelled at the US border. The number of migrants at the complex is estimated at over 6,000.

Reporter Luke Rudowsky of We Are Change reports on the dismal conditions at and near the Juarez sports complex in Zona Norte, Tijuana. People are reported as coughing and vomiting, spitting and urinating on public streets. Fake News reports no criminals are found in the caravan. Rudowsky reports that migrants assaulted an aid worker just a few days before.

Mexico has offered housing, employment and health care to the migrants. Only 1,700 of them have officially taken asylum in Mexico. Many migrants may not know what asylum means?

Several compilations of video clips are circulating now on social media. They show illegal ingrates complaining about not having free buses provided for their march, complaining about having to eat beans and tortillas, and about refugee centers who want the migrants to clean up after themselves and sweep their trash. How rude! Also shown are the incredible amounts of food, water, clothing and trash migrants are leaving behind. Footage from places such as Jesus Martinez 'Palillo' stadium are shown, in Mexico City, including how several trash trucks were brought in to collect refuse.

December

December 1, 2018 - Caravan leader Irineo Mujica scolds Mexican federal police. The police are preventing Mujica from taking 15 women to a public place near the US border at Chaparral. These women are part of the ongoing hunger strike. Mujica wanted them to be visible for Fake News media to report on them. Instead, the women are told to set up under a bridge, on a public thoroughfare. Mujica continually misdirects the conversation by demanding to know how many deaths occur in Tijuana due to drug cartel violence.

December 2, 2018 - In a video release, Tijuana mayor Gastelum announces migrants are being moved from Juarez sports complex and into a larger center. This is the concert and entertainment venue El Barretal, located east of the border in Matamoros Colony. Gastelum also presents a flyer being circulated by caravan leaders. The flyer shows people breaking through a barbed wire fence. It reads:

We must march to the border on Saturday, the first of December. On the day of the inauguration of new Mexican president Manuel Lopez Obrador. - 11 AM from the Benito Juarez sports complex - Open the border or we will shut it down! - Our last action has placed us closer to victory - Mexicans and Americans fight alongside us

Gastelum states he has asked federal police to do everything they can to prevent another disruption at the US border.

News media gives us a look at the Juarez sports complex, after over 6,000 invaders have been transported out to the new refugee center in Matamoros. We see industrial amounts of garbage left behind, including mountains of clothing, trash and large stacks of small mattresses.

December 3, 2018 - Video documents Mexican federal police stopping a caravan of 150 people in southern Mexico. After heated debate, the invaders are placed onto buses. An official states they will not be allowed to enter Mexico improperly, unregulated or illegally. From the video, it is stated that these migrants will be deported.

December 4, 2018 - A video alleges that Mexican cartels are searching for a caravan leader, after the leader has apparently insulted the cartels. A cash reward is suggested. I cannot verify this information any further.

December 4, 2018 - A short video shows a meeting of illegal migrants. They debate whether or not they will continue with the caravan or not. A leader states they are doing it for the children, who cannot speak for themselves. The refugee center in Juarez complex is compared to a concentration camp, yet again.

December 5, 2018 - Focusing on the UN's Global Pact For Migration, from a conservative viewpoint. Under this Pact, the UN will choose how many people will be migrated or how many goods will be moved. National laws must take second place to UN mandates. In addition to mass migrations, the UN may choose to suggest other purposes to host nations. Universities will be used to push UN agenda when it comes to refugee issues. Host nations will incur the costs of financing migrations.

The UN will promote good relations for peaceful coexistence. These are social projects to minimize invasions and their impacts, including censorship. Not only will host nations have to labor the costs of force migration, but money and resources will be given to nations of origin. Resettlement projects will last several years. The UN will dictate host nations and migrant numbers.

December 5, 2018 - During the transportation of migrants from Juarez sports complex to Matamoros, apparently 3,000 invaders have gone missing. We see an image of the American flag hung upside down at Juarez complex. From the complex, we have the official count of invaders: 3,877 men, 1,127 women 542 boys and 516 girls, for a total of 6,062. These are the numbers for INSIDE the sports complex, and not for the migrants who were camped outside on the streets.

Only 2,122 people made it to the new refugee center, with approximately 744 left on the streets surrounding the complex. Halfway houses and churches took in another 144.

An estimated 600 invaders were returned to their countries, including 178 deported and 409 that asked to be returned, according to the secretary general of Baja California.

Mexican officials are downplaying how many migrants have disappeared, calling it a clerical error.

The invaders have complained that the new refugee center is too far from the border, again hinting that they are not in Tijuana to officially apply for asylum, but to enter the US illegally.

Sergio Tamai, director of Angels Without Borders, states that Tijuana officials deliberately inflated the numbers so they could ask for greater federal funds. According to Tamai, the city requested a hundred million pesos to deal with the crisis. Tijuana mayor Juan Gastelum has stated it is costing his city 550,000 pesos per day to maintain the migrants at Juarez complex.

Defenders And Offenders

Unfortunately, there are not enough defenders to eclipse the growing infamy of offenders. Following are the strongest supporters of Mexico's rights as a sovereign nation, as well as a list of con men and women, in addition to a couple of idiots who should have done better by keeping their mouths shut.

Defender: Tijuana Mayor Juan Gastelum - This man came onto the scene with some hesitation, I would say. After the debacle at Playas, where I believe Gastelum has a residence, many of Tijuana's wealthy citizens complained vociferously enough for the mayor to actually do his job. Once Gastelum was in the race, he made good, sound decisions in support of the people of Tijuana, in sharp contrast to the feeble all talk, no action stance of Baja Governor De La Vega. (Vega is now being investigated for corruption, after President Obrador's inauguration.)

Gastelum moved the invasion horde from Playas to Zona Norte. When things went out of control after the human stampede in late November, it was Gastelum who opened up the entertainment complex in Matamoros. By moving the horde there, he is in effect dismantling the caravans and keeping them away from the border, and out of Fake News spotlight range. I believe Gastelum further castrated the caravan by telling municipal police to keep Mujica and his 15 women on hunger strike away from the Chaparral border crossing, and putting them under a bridge, on the street, where their presence has dramatically reduced impact. Also, Gastelum has ordered for the criminal remnant of the caravan still occupying the public streets around Juarez complex to be moved, by force if necessary, on the morning of Dec. 10. For over two weeks now, those roads have been closed to traffic, and the local elementary school has been closed.

“Human rights for right humans.” - Gastelum

The Tijuana mayor received tremendous liberal backlash for suggesting the unruly, illegal mob behave itself if it wanted the respect of the people of Tijuana. He further inflamed the left by wearing a red cap with the slogan ‘Make Tijuana Great Again.’ The cap was modeled after Trump’s MAGA hats, and was given to Gastelum by a little girl.

Defender Honorable Mention: Alex Backman of Conciencia Radio has been a strong voice against illegal migration since the start. I’ve seen him rally the crowd at several locations, including Cuahatemoc Roundabout in Plaza Rio and later at Juarez complex in Zona Norte.

Defender Honorable Mention: Paloma For Trump, from True Conservative Minutes YT channel, has also been outspoken in her criticism of the Honduran invasion. She is a dual citizen who frequently broadcasts reports from Tijuana, sometimes becoming the story herself. She has been harassed by socialist reporters and by migrants.

Defender Honorable Mention: There are several YT channels out there that have been covering the invasion ever since the first Hondurans set foot in Mexico. Among the most informative are Francisco Lopez and Efecto Noticia. I have to give credit to Vicente Serrano of Sin Censura news. He is a pro-Obrador socialist, but to his credit he has traveled from Chicago to Tijuana to assess the situation for himself. Also notable was Luke Rudowsky of We Are Change, who also went to Juarez complex, and who I have been following since the Occupy Movement.

Defender Honorable Mention: Guatemala allowed the first three caravans to seep through its territory. After that, President Morales is doing little, but he at least he is doing something by turning back invaders and asking the US to help him identify troublemakers.

Unknown Quantity: New President of Mexico Manuel Obrador. While Obrador vows to help the Mexican people out of poverty and into productiveness, he is also ready to sign the UN Pact for Migration, which will likely flood Mexico with even more unwanted caravans. Obrador talks a good game, including saying he will buck the institutionalized form of government that has kept Mexico suffering for the last 30 years. Those are big words, similar in rhetoric to what we heard from former socialist US president Obama.

Offender: Irineo Mujica is listed on Wikipedia as director of Pueblos Sin Fronteras. He is a dual US-Mexico citizen, born in Mexico and raised in Phoenix,

Arizona. Mujica is a long-time political activist. Glenn Beck has traced Pueblos Sin Fronteras to CARA Family Detention Pro Bono Project. CARA encompasses two legal groups: Catholic Legal Immigration Network and American Immigration Council. Both groups are funded by George Soros. (From articles by Az Central and Joe For America.)

<https://www.azcentral.com/story/news/politics/immigration/2018/11/09/irineo-mujica-u-s-citizen-who-helps-coordinate-migrant-caravans/1910712002/>

<https://joeforamerica.com/2018/04/whos-really-behind-the-illegal-immigrants-the-migrant-caravan-and-pueblo-sin-fronteras/>

Mujica has been adamant in demanding excessive benefits for the caravans, and recently scolded Tijuana municipal police for preventing him from putting 15 women on hunger strike in a location chosen for good media coverage. He also angered Tijuana residents when he stated that the drug cartels were causing the city's crime and violence, and not criminals and gang members within the caravans, and that Tijuana is a place no one wants to come to. Uniradio Informa reports that Mujica was detained in Suchiate, Hidalgo, Chiapas on October 19, 2018, for resisting arrest and vandalism. He opposed (or attacked) migratory officials, federal and municipal police while trying to mobilize the caravan. In early December, Mujica tried to distance himself from the criminals in the caravan, saying he is not responsible for their actions. At the same time, he is constantly looking for ways to sensationalize the plight of the caravan, to draw attention away from their crimes, and to antagonize authorities.

Offender: Pitaya Queen, also known as Ana K from Chihuahua, has a real name of Roberto Jakay Flotte Jr. He is a transgender from Presidio, Texas, with US citizenship. This person has a PhD doctorate in Anthropology, Native American Program, from Harvard University. Pitaya is accused of being a drug addict and pimp, and of trafficking humans across the US border for prostitution.

In May of 2018, Pitaya took 35 gays into the Caritas shelter in Tijuana. The shelter mysteriously caught fire during the time he was there. Pitaya tweeted that the fire was caused by transphobes. He asked his fans to contact US border authorities, passing on the message that he and the other gays should be taken into the US right away because their lives were at risk. His tweets are written in very good English, drawing sympathy from his followers, when his intentions all along are to traffic gays for prostitution. One of his wards was named Roxanne, a gay who later died of HIV due to lack of treatment.

While at a drug rehabilitation center in Tijuana, he was caught using drugs and making attempts to smuggle gays across the border.

Pitaya and a group of 80 LGBT entered Mexico as part of the first caravan. When the caravan lost some of its steam in Mexico City, he and his gays broke away and traveled by train to Mexicali, Baja California, where all 80 of them stayed in hotel rooms. The group arrived in Tijuana in November 11, staying at a luxury house in Playas that reportedly cost ten thousand pesos ($500 dollars) to rent, but I couldn't verify if that was a weekly or monthly rate. While in Playas, Pitaya and his boyfriend Cesar Mejia were recorded arguing with affluent residents, mostly women, who did not want queers in their neighborhood. This was a very controversial moment in the caravan's march. While in Tijuana, Pitaya was spotted buying coffee at Starbucks and ordering large amounts of beer at night clubs, which did not jive with his claims of poverty and oppression for his gay entourage.

Due to the negative publicity, Pitaya took 47 gays and traveled to Nogales, Sonora, again renting expensive hotel rooms. (Municipal president Irastorza gives a number of 60 in Pitaya's group.) This defender of human and gay rights refuses to be interviewed by an independent journalist who tracks him down. His group, from Honduras and Nicaragua, harasses the journalist out on the street.

Pitaya is accused of using minors for prostitution. The minors were aged 14 and 15, from Guatemala and El Salvador. The minors had sexually transmitted diseases from having slept with the transgenders. The minors were deceived into believing they would have no problem getting into Miami, Florida, where they would begin better lives.

Offender: Lady Frijoles earned national infamy in Mexico, when she uttered the following words to a reporter from DW News:

“The food they give us here... Fatal... Only refried beans as if they were feeding pigs.” - Miriam Selaya

Miriam Selaya (also Mirian Yamileth) spoke those fateful words during an interview, when she was staying in the Juarez sports complex. The video clip went viral throughout Mexico, with dozens, if not hundreds of reaction videos, parodies, memes and even music making her the laughingstock of an entire country. DW News caught up with her a second time, where Miriam gave a tearful apology.

However, when Miriam mentioned she was on social media and What's App, amateur sleuths went searching and found her publicly posted pictures. This set off a new round of indignation from Mexicans, as Miriam's account showed did not show a humble woman in poverty. Instead, Miriam was seen posing in tight, revealing and sexy clothing, with her nails painted, wearing jewelry, high heels and sporting a Louis Vitton handbag. Miriam's house looks nice, and she's also posed behind the wheel of a late model car.

When Miriam started getting harassed and bullied online, she was moved to another shelter. Later, she began getting death threats from angry critics. For a time, it was feared she might have been kidnapped. Miriam turned up in Texas, where apparently she was given expedited asylum thanks to the harassment. This woman and her dumb comments have made her the caravan's metaphorical dartboard or mascot.

Offender: Ivan Rieveling, also known as Comandante Cobra and the Mexican Rambo. This personality started popping up in my feed right around the time of the Tijuana protest on November 18. Rieveling, who is a big, strapping and bald man in his forties, wearing military fatigues, walked up to Conciencia Radio's Alex Backman to give his viewpoint on the migrant caravan. People started going up to him to pose for pictures. After doing some research into this character, I have found that he is a very shady character with a notorious criminal background.

This rat's full name is Ivan Mariano Martin Del Campo Rieveling. According to the DEA, he has been arrested and / or deported six different times in California, for crimes ranging from possession of marijuana to carrying a concealed, stolen weapon, to giving false statements to a 2008 arrest for assault, robbery and rape. He has also been arrested in the US for making threats.

The criminal behavior continues in Mexico. Rieveling claims to be National Coordinator for the Diplomatic Corps of International Human Rights. This organization only exists in this man's head. The newspaper Zeta had to state he never worked for them, the UN said he has no affiliation with them, and even the Knights Templar have kicked him out. Rieveling has threatened Tijuana reporters for revealing his past crimes in California, and recently he threatened former president Pena Nieto and Tijuana mayor Gastelum. Dozens of Mexican reporters, editors and cameraman have denounced him publicly.

As if that wasn't enough, the rumor is that he runs a personal security business where he sells weapons to criminals or shady people, and he openly claims to have many friends in the drug cartels. This guy isn't just a rat, but a super rat.

Offenders Dishonorable Mention: Many. Yes, there are many who deserve to be placed into this caravan's Hall Of Shame.

We have one caravan leader who usually wore a red hat and silver aviator sunglasses to hide his identity. He went by the name Netty a few times. He was the person telling members of the caravan to place women and children up front during the march, and later during the stampede toward the US border that took place in late November.

Dozens of Hondurans and other Central Americans get the Big Loser Award as well. These exigent people were making demands on Mexicans for junk food such as pizzas and hamburgers, new and not used clothing, transportation to the US border and a cushy place to lounge while they wait for their asylum petitions to process. These were the people smoking weed at Playas, the Juarez sports complex and later the Barretal concert complex. They refused food from aid workers, even throwing the food at the workers, and left a trail of trash everywhere they went. I'm not even counting the criminals that were leeching off the caravan here.

Sonia Diaz, also known as Cristina Estrada Torres, was the woman arrested when Tijuana officials tried to move members of the caravan from Juarez complex to Barretal. It took three female police officers to transport this aggressive woman into a police vehicle, and even then Diaz managed to bite an officer's forearm. Before this incident, I had already seen this woman sniping at independent reporters whenever they tried to record her face. Diaz was accused of being a human trafficker, or coyote, but this hasn't been verified. In video taken by a concerned citizen, I observed Diaz standing in a huddle of young men, late at night near Juarez complex. It looked like a football huddle almost, or a plot. Diaz is not part of any social organization or church group, so what is she doing in Tijuana, other than stirring the pot against reporters and police officials?

Father Alejandro Solalinde continues to extol the many positive virtues of the horde, despite having taken two bags of firearms away from them and knowing their faults. They are desperate, poor, hungry people, he claims, yet he barely denounced the Maras gang members and other criminals within the movement. Recently, Solalinde has arrived in Tijuana, at Juarez complex, where police officials are expected to move the most stubborn invaders out of the public street and into the Barretal shelter at Matamoros.

Sergio Tamei of Angels Without Borders arrived late on the scene in December. He irked me when he suggested that Mayor Gastelum inflated the number of migrants staying in Juarez complex, so Gastelum could ask for greater amounts of funds from federal resources. I've been following the caravan's numbers ever since they stormed past the Guatemalan border, and then this jerk steps in and tells news reporters the numbers are wrong? Sure, the numbers could be rigged, but that would mean the workers are Juarez complex have been lying for the last half of November. According to their statistics, the number of people in Juarez complex went from 4,000 to a grand total of 6,062 during that time, with aerial drone shots showing how crowded the complex was. About the only thing Tamei said that I agreed with, is that he denounced the way caravan leaders were putting women and children up front of their march and stampede.

Conclusion

I am writing this on the morning of Monday, December 10, 2018. The story continues to develop. On Friday, Tijuana authorities gave the remnants of the caravan, staunchly refusing to leave the public streets of Zona Norte, 72 hours to go to the Barretal center in Matamoros. Over the weekend, invaders in Barretal have been trickling back to Juarez complex, claiming they were mistreated or they didn't like the curfews or whatnot. So, these people would rather shit and piss in the street than go to a refugee center with utilities, food, water, toilets and surrounding walls to protect them from angry locals. The elementary school in Zona Norte has been closed for over two weeks, the streets and complex are still full of trash and the stubborn stragglers have already been attacked three times, including having eggs and bottles of urine thrown at them. Father Solalinde has arrived to help, but he wants to help the illegal invaders more than the residents of Tijuana.

There is a humanitarian crisis in the Central American nations; I won't argue against that, as I've been following their news channels for months now. In Nicaragua, for example, president Ortega has sent police and right wing mobs into villages to assassinate those critical of his policies, and masked men have even entered churches to attack clergy and reporters. I agree that something has to be done, but I don't think sending millions of dollars of US taxpayer money into Central America is the solution. Unlike the United Nations, I believe the problem should be dealt with at the country of origin, and not at the country where the invaders end up.

This movement started as a way for leftists to get back at President Trump. Trump is not blameless, as he and other republican warhawks kept hinting at military intervention in Venezuela for months. Venezuela's Maduro decided to get the ball rolling through his connections in Honduras, and Honduras is so corrupt that president Hernandez' brother was just arrested for drug and weapons smuggling. The caravans are formed and move into Chiapas, Mexico, where corrupt interim governor Velasquez is accused of stealing hundreds of thousands of pesos from the people, while not paying doctors or teachers, and not doing a thing to stop genocides taking place in rural towns. Do you see how everything about the caravan movement is corrupted?

George Soros and his NGOs saw a chance to co-opt the movement, and they jumped on it. Fake News presents the public with the 'good side' of a foreign invasion. Critics are denounced as racists and xenophobes. United Nations' puppets wave their flags of multiculturalism and diversity, as they always do. An estimated 120 to 190 countries are expected to sign the UN Global Compact for Migration.

There is no real conclusion to this story. It is ongoing, and will continue to be ongoing, until people realize who is behind it and they stop supporting the bad guys. Look at all these socialists rallying to dismantle national sovereignty and turn over the controls of power to the United Nations. Open borders for the world, because flooding Mexico and the US with foreigners is more important than Mexico taking care of five states who suffered through severe rains and flooding after Category 5 Hurricane Willa in late October.

The UN, the IMF and the WHO are the New World Order. Human lives don't matter in this equation unless they move the socialist agenda forward. It also doesn't matter if drug and human traffickers, gang members and terrorists infiltrate and abuse the hordes. Threats to US national security like multi-millionaire George Soros flip through their stacks of cash will complete impunity for their actions, and national leaders become puppets for the United Nations at the cost of their people's welfare.

All of the caravan leaders should be tried for human rights abuses, because they deceived the poor people of Central America into believing in a fantasy of the US greeting them with open arms. Great, Rich America is expected to give these young Latino men, and comparatively far fewer women and children, citizenship, employment, benefits and spouses. The disappointment has set into the minds of many of these people already, but Mexico's president Obrador is set to sign the UN Pact today or tomorrow, guaranteeing that we will see more caravans heading not only to the US, but to other First World countries as well. The socialist idea of stealing from the rich to give to the poor might sound great as a Robin Hood fairy tale, but in real practice, it is going to destroy world stability and make it that much easier for the UN / New World Order takeover.

México Advierte A Caravana Centroamericana: Sin Visa No Podrá Ingresar Al País
- Francisco Lopez

Run time: 10 minutes.

Notes: I am establishing a timeline for the emergence of the Honduran Invasion.

An article from Milenio dated from October 14 states that Mexico will not allow any migrants into its country without visas. At this point, the illegal immigrants numbered at two thousand. In the article, the governmental entity Governance of Foreign Relations states that visas must be obtained at consulates and not at the border.

Another Milenio article from March 21, 2018 notes that 350,000 Columbians live in Mexico City, up from an average of 90,000. Chief of Government Miguel Mancera states the need for biometric controls to confirm the identities of people who are legally allowed to be in Mexico City. The same person might enter Mexico under three or four different names.

Biometric controls should have been implemented a long time ago, Mancera said. The decision not to install them was political.

Run time: 10 minutes

Notes: The video is dated from October 16, 2018.

Reported in an article by Proceso - The National Institution of Immigration sends federal officers to Mexico's southern border. The officers were tasked with preventing the Honduran horde from entering into Mexican territory.

Concerns are raised regarding the unlawful entry of Maras gang members and the safety of the immigrants. Another concern is that the migrants will enter Mexico without having their identification verified.

Mexican government official Navarrote Prida is blamed for having allowed the caravan to get to the border.

AMLO traiciona a México, dará libre paso a CARAVANA de migrantes y visas de trabajo - Francisco Lopez

Run time: 11 minutes.

Notes: President elect Manuel Obrador publicly announces he will make work visas available to Honduran foreigners.

An article from Aristegui News states Mexico will be divided into 265 zones, with federal, military and naval police assigned to them based on some sort of index.

Mexican political titles are a mess. Okay, the Secretary of Governance told the Commissioned General of the Federal Police, Manelich Castiall, NOT to stop the illegal migrant caravan. This is from an article in El Sol De Mexico, from October 16, 2018.

Basically, outgoing president Pena-Nieto gave up power a month and a half before new president Obrador is officially inaugurated on December 1st.

In an article from Televisa, October 16th, we have a report that the migrants will have free passage through the state of Chiapas.

Human and drug traffickers are establishing smuggling corridors through Mexico and toward the US. Things will be that much easier if the migrants are given work visas.

“Anyone who wants to work in our country, will have our support.” - Obrador

The number of migrants is estimated at 4 to 5,000.

Por la Caravana de migrantes, AMLO hace peligrar el TLC y la seguridad en México - Francisco Lopez

Run time: 10 minutes.

Notes: This report is from October 18, 2018. It reiterates that outgoing president Pena-Nieto sent federal agents to prevent Hondurans from entering into Mexico. This decision was overridden by president elect Obredor, who has promised work visas to the incoming mob.

In recorded audio, Obredor offers benefits to migrants beginning on December 1st. He states work visas will be distributed.

On October 18, an article from El Universal states US President Trump will send troops to secure the border. Trump makes the claim that criminals are in the caravan.

Run time: 12 minutes.

Notes: Video from October 18, 2018.

In previous posts, I covered the Youtube channel of Francisco Lopez on Honduran Horde events up to when the mob burst through Guatemalan border defenses. I am now switching over to another channel, Conciencia Radio, run by Alex Backman. This channel also has a tremendous amount of information and insight on the engineered crisis.

Migrant infestation numbers at 7,000.

The caravan was then halted at the Mexican border at Tapachula, Chiapas.

Backman characterizes the invasion as a communist 5th Column movement, speculating that George Soros is behind it.

Evidente la traición de AMLO a México y la crisis que hizo escalar - Francisco Lopez

Run time: 12 minutes.

Notes: This video is from October 19th, 2018.

Migrant caravan leader Walter Coelho speaks on how the migrants are looking for work and better lives. Coelho clearly states that the migrants are NOT heading for the US, but are planning to stay in Mexico.

The narrator states that 99% of the comments on his channel are against the Honduran invasion, contrary to the claims of Mexican Fake News.

The caravan leader is also reported as saying the migrants 'don't want to steal,' implying they would steal if they have to.

Mexican nationals who voted for Obrador feel betrayed.

There is worry again that Maras gang members are part of the mob.

At this point, the horde was massed up on the bridge between Mexico and Guatemala.

Trump ofrece a México USD $20 millones por Caravana Migrante - Francisco Lopez

Migrants are slowly tricking into southern Mexico.

An article from Lopez-Doriga has the headline that US President Trump has offered 20 million dollars to halt the Honduran Horde. Secretary of Governance Alfonso Navarrete Prida reportedly turned down the offer. This information comes from an interview done by Radio Formula. Prida was hopeful at that time that 6 million migrants would enter Mexico. So far, only 200 requests for asylum from the horde have been registered.

The article states that children, women and older people were deliberately placed at the front of the caravan to push at border barriers.

The Funding Behind The Midterm Migrant Caravan - The Red Elephant

Run time: 15 minutes.

A Tweet from Skylight Engagements states their camera crew filmed video of the Honduran Horde on October 19, when the first caravan had just entered into Mexico from Guatemala.

Skylight's official address is 147 Prince Street, 3rd Floor, Brooklyn, NY 11201. Their web address is skylight.is.

George Soros' tax return for 2016, listed under foundation name Foundation To Promote Open Society, shows 'general support' was provided to Skylight in the amount of 1 million dollars. This PDF tax return is reportedly 500 pages long.

Through Twitter, it is proven that Skylight is associated with Open Society.

The tax return shows financial support for the organizations that organized the Cavanaugh and DACA protests. Another ploy is to fund projects that allow illegal immigrants to obtain the right to vote faster.

The United Nations Global Compact For Migration calls for the resettlement of 294 million illegal immigrants into Canada, the US and Europe. That is close to the entire population of the United States of 315 million, roughly.

Run time: 22 minutes.

Notes: This video is from October 26, 2018.

Headline from the periodical Zeta - 'We are a force of thousands and we are going to Tijuana'

Migrant count at the time was 15,000.

Trump had ordered 800 or 1,000 troops to the US border by then.

American militias were supporting Trump's move.

The Lying Clintons and the Obama Cartel received bomb threats, the same as Reptile Soros. This was one week before midterms.

Many of the invaders looked well bathed, well clothed and well heeled in general.

The invaders left behind tremendous amounts of trash and clothing.

US Vice President Pence claimed Venezuelan interests were behind the caravan. When I first heard this, I doubted it, as I didn't see the connection. As time has gone on however, and especially in light of the revelation that Venezuela's Maduro and North Korea's Jon-Yung will attend Obrador's inauguration, I've changed my mind.

The reported quote is that 30,000 migrants were going to destroy Trump's wall.

US ambassador to Honduras Mike Pompeo also names Venezuela as a culprit.

Only 1,400 applied for refugee asylum at the southern Mexican border. This means those people would have had to prove their identities and officially register. Caravan leaders deliberately forced their way into Mexico to avoid having the migrants registered.

The migrants, as quoted in the Zeta newspaper article, are fleeing the Honduran government run by rightist Juan Orlando Hernandez, alleging that the horde favors the Left.

Honduran reporter Denys Paredes left his family in a financial bind to become part of the caravan. Paredes is quoted as saying they will reach Tijuana as a force of 30,000.

US financial aid to Honduras in 2016 was 128 million dollars.

At the time, it was estimated that 13,000 migrants were forming a new caravan in El Salvador.

US intelligence had either investigated or infiltrated the first caravan, estimating that 90% of migrants were male. These men are described as being of military age, from 18 to 35 years old.

Fake News reports primarily show women with children or pushing strollers.

Backman correctly predicts strife in Playas De Tijuana, which took place over half a month later on November 14th.

Update: OTM Invasion Of Mexico - Thousands More Coming - Consciencia Radio
Run time: 24 minutes.

Notes: Video from October 31, 2018.

On October 28, invaders broke through the southern Mexican border.

Under Mexico's recent constitutional reform, guidelines are more in line with United Nations policies. Mexican law must conform with international treaties. Human rights must be in conformity, in part, with progressiveness.

Shots were fired at Mexican federal police during the border breach. Rocks were thrown directly at officers.

The second caravan from El Salvador numbers at 13,000. A third caravan numbers at 2,000.

Two invaders were arrested with weapons.

In a video, a radical, concealed invader told the reporter not to aim his camera at where the Molotov cocktails were being prepared.

Organizers reportedly want to increase the caravan to 100,000 invaders.

Hurricane Willa affected 185,000 Mexicans nationals in Nayarit and Sonora, leaving thousands homeless.

Two migrants have already died from accidents.

3,000 migrants from Guatemala are part of a new caravan.

Esto Es Una Invasion - Hasta En La Cocina Ep41- Consciencia Radio

Run time: 1 hour, 10 minutes.

Notes: Intro video clip shows Honduran trespassers breaking past border defenses in southern Mexico. They are throwing rocks and pulling down gates, while Mexican border officials are seen doing very little to stop them. An invader states that since they have lost women and children, they are coming in peace, but if Mexico does not allow them entry, they will resort to violent means.

A second clip shows the invaders insulting Mexican federal agents by referring to them as culeros, or assholes, all done in the name of migratory peace, of course. Rock throwers attack a Mexican helicopter at the scene. The invaders have left a tremendous amount of trash in their wake.

Show hosts are Alex Backman and Monica Gahbler.

Backman blames Guatemala for allowing the horde to get that far.

Secretary of Governance Navarette De Prida claims the invaders are not violating any national laws.

Honduras is not in war at this time, so there is no basis for its citizens to claim refugee status.

The peaceful Hondurans have covered their faces, while throwing rocks and Molotov cocktails. The claim is that the invaders are poor and hungry.

At the time, 3 caravans were reported.

Two invaders were arrested in Chiapas, after shooting at Mexican federal police. The police was escorting the caravan when this occurred. The assailants were 17 and 22 years of age.

Socialists decry Mexicans as xenophobes for protesting the invasion.

Some invaders are coming in sick with tropical diseases.

7,000 invaders had arrived in the state of Oaxaca. 13,000 Salvadorans were in route to Mexico. A third caravan is reported.

The Mexican government stated it would allow peaceful entry, as long as the migrants registered their identities. The migrants have refused to do this. The actions seen already, the concealing of their faces and violence, proves there are many delinquents in the caravan. Abuse of women within the caravan is mentioned. People have died from exhaustion. Children have disappeared.

Backman calls Baja California governor Enrique de la Vega a coward if he refuses to halt the migrant caravan.

Gahbler brings up George Soros being behind Open Borders, and that people in the caravan are being paid to cause violence and conflict.

Fake News calls the idea that Soros is behind this a conspiracy theory and anti-Semitism. Backman reminds us that Hungary, where Soros was born, considers him a wanted man. Son Alexander Soros is said to be of the same mold.

President elect Obrador claims he needs the Hondurans for his ambitious Train Maya project.

Cuba and Venezuela are also blamed for inciting the caravan, in an attempt to embarrass US President Trump. (As an aside, you must remember that Trump and his warhawk generals were pushing to use military aggression against Venezuela for several months.) Note that Mexican Secretary of the Interior has announced that Venezuela's Maduro will be at Obrador's inauguration.

Soros is described as a non-practicing Jew. He has backed many illegal migrant movements in the past.

An article from The Times Of Israel, dated February 4, 2018, has the headline 'Netanyahu: George Soros Behind Bid To Thwart Migrant Deportations.' Netanyahu is accused of taking part in the 'anti-Semitic' Hungarian campaign against Soros. This shows the regressive Left is willing to associate Netanyahu, the leader of Israel and obviously a Jew, as being anti-Semitic. How absurd is that?

No surveillance video proof for the supposed bomb delivered to Soros' billion dollar residence has been produced. Why hasn't the US frozen this man's assets yet?

Murder rate in Mexico is 24 for every 1,000 of its population. In Honduras, it is 60 for every 1,000.

The point of the invasion, according to Backman, is to divide the partnership between the US and Mexico, and to cause Mexico to ally instead with nations to its south. (YT channel Florida Maquis also made this prediction months ago, after following the politics of Brazil, Colombia and Venezuela.)

An estimated 125 to 180,000 Mexicans from Nayarit have lost their homes after Hurricane Wilma, yet Mexico is more worried about the health and welfare of the caravan. Where is the humanitarian aid for Mexican citizens?

MS-13 gang members are reputed to have smuggled nuclear devices through Mexico in the 1990s.

The federal officers who were shot upon were taking part in Operation Walker.

No fund drive was ever collected for Nayarit or Michoacan.

Trump was about to sign an Executive Order disallowing US birth right to children born to illegal migrants.

An estimated 30 million illegal migrants live in the US. Compare to the 11 million figure tossed around by Fake News reporter Jorge Ramos.

Refugee centers in Tijuana were already full. Open-air camps were planned, with a cold winter approaching.

Haitian mothers fly into Mexico to give birth, giving Mexican citizenship to their kids, before they fly back to their home country.

Obrador plans to give the invaders 'field jobs.' This is contradictory, as the invaders already had field jobs and were fed up with them. It would be even worse in the US, because of their lack of job skills. Plus, they don't speak the English language.

Illegal immigration into the US has increased by 25% in 2018.

Trump planned on sending between 10 and 15,000 troops to the US border.

First Wave OF Illegals From Honduras Reached The Border - Conciencia Radio
Run time: 19 minutes.

Notes: Video from November 1, 2018.

Fake News continues to downplay the Honduran invasion.

The first wave of migrants reaches the border between Mexicali and Calexico. They traveled by train. (I believe these turned out to be the LGBT contingent that later caused strife in Playas De Tijuana.) The larger portion of the first caravan, about 5,500 strong, was stuck in Oaxaca, after moving through Chiapas. The bulk of the caravan was demanding public transportation to the US border.

The first wave was staying in hotels in Mexicali. Where is the money coming from? How many hotel rooms do 76 people rent?

From the article in Frontera, November 1, we read that the 14 refugee centers in Mexicali can have room for 500 occupants. In Tijuana, the centers can hold only 150 women and children. Both Mexicali and Tijuana centers were already full.

New Minister of the Interior, Sanchez-Cordero, offered 1 million work visas for the arriving migrants. Jobs for foreigners, not for Mexicans!

Migrants were given social security numbers and legal status.

Angela Merkel is said to have been educated in Soviet tactics when she lived in Moscow.

70% of the first caravan are heading to Baja California, about 4,900 or so.

The migrants are coming from El Salvador, Guatemala, Honduras and Nicaragua.

After the big earthquake in September 2017 in Mexico City, a lot of Mexicans are homeless and unemployed. University graduates can't find jobs.

Obrador cancelled the huge new airport construction project in Texcoco, and had the plan to take over the military base in Santa Lucia, to expand their airport in conjunction with the air force.

Water issues in Mexico City have caused a 5-day disruption of service. 17 million people will be without water.

3,500 Salvadorans arrived at the Mexican / Guatemalan border with caravan leaders. They arrived in buses.

Catastrophic rains have affected Nayarit, Oaxaca, Sinaloa and Sonora.

Olga Sanchez-Cordero has promised 1 million visas to migrants.

An unknown number of men in the caravan have been identified as Special Interest Aliens. These are troublesome individuals the US government is watching out for. These include political radicals or criminal associations.

Urgente! Lo Que Debes Saber De La Caravana, Es La Invasion Ilegal - Consciencia
Radio

Run time: 27 minutes.

Notes: This is the first video I watched from Backman's channel, back in early November when all this was still starting up. Dated from November 5, 2018.

Mexican authorities have done nothing to stem the flow of invaders.

The organization Judicial Watch sent reporters to Honduras to document the formation of caravans. They found a highly funded and organized movement led by Non-Governmental Organizations such as Open Borders, backed by George Soros.

Women and children are being put up front of the caravans to elicit public sympathy. 5,000 invaders have reached Mexico City.

Mexican funds are being used to transport the caravan into Mexico City.

At least two federal officers have been killed.

Criminals are imbedded in the caravans, including human traffickers and gang members, as documented by Judicial Watch. Honduras may be sending its worst citizens into the caravans to get rid of them.

The second caravan, made up mostly of Salvadorans, have reached Oaxaca. They number at approximately at 3,000, after having some confrontation with officials. Another group, a third caravan, refuses to show identification at the Mexico / Guatemala border.

US border officers in New Laredo, Texas, are reinforcing the border and cleaning up the Rio Bravo.

What Fake News is not reporting: Mexico cannot absorb so many invaders. The caravans may have been organized years ahead of time. Guatemala states the caravans are not forming spontaneously. Most of the caravans are made up of men in their twenties. Many of these invaders have left their wives and children behind in their home countries.

(The first caravan was formed in San Pedro Sula, Honduras, on October 12, 2018. This comes from a member of Judicial Watch with a Honduran wife, who claim the first caravan started up in a shopping mall.)

Many migrants do not qualify for asylum.

Many migrants claimed they would stay in Veracruz, but later they started moving toward Mexico City. Unverified reports from Tepito and City Azteca state that organized crime cartels in Mexico City plan to arm the criminal element within the caravans with AR-15 assault rifles and grenades. This way they will be heavily armed when they reach the US border.

Criminal groups within Mexico are infiltrating the caravan.

Other people in the caravans come from Africa, Bangladesh, China and the Near East, including Islamic extremists. Some of these people received Venezuelan passports, allowing them to travel into Honduras.

Mexico may be the target of terrorism, in addition to the US.

Migrant diseases include tuberculosis and dengue fever.

FBI documents link to George Soros to the US government, where the government is facilitating matters for Soros.

More caravans are arriving in Mexicali. The migrants are complaining that they are mistreated at refugee centers.

Guatemala did all it could to deter and deport the invaders back to their home countries.

Unnamed sources within the Baja California government say governor Enrique De La Vega wants nothing to do with the caravans, as he hopes to leave office with a clean exit.

Honduran president Hernandez claims his people were misled into joining the caravans.

Fake News is focusing on the women and children.

Invaders burned down an immigration center in Chiapas. 21 men, 5 women and 3 kids were staying there. They were in the process of being deported.

Radical Muslims from Bangladesh are in the caravan, according to Univision. They joined the caravan in Guatemala. Judicial Watch and Daily Caller confirm this. Report date is November 2. These Muslims may go after Mexico targets.

According to an FBI report, a radical Muslim cell in Las Vegas was constructing C4 explosive devices for Mexican targets.

5 Syrian men with stolen passports were arrested in Honduras, from the same place where the first caravan started up.

It is reiterated that the majority of the invasion horde entered Mexico without being identified or even named.

Cubans are in the caravan. 11 were detained.

160 million pesos were spent on a failed water piping system. Apparently, a foreign firm was contracted to design and build it. Mexico decided it would take over the project and put it together, and it failed miserably.

George Soros attempted to disassociate himself from the caravan.

No city in Mexico can handle that many migrants.

Crime reports increased in Mexico City, including robberies and rapists.

Milenio News covered events from Russian, China and North Korea.

Oaxaca refused to transport the invaders.

Mexicans in Veracruz tried to record the caravan. Migrants stopped their cars and forced them to erase their pictures and videos. Also, migrants were boarding private cars and forcing the drivers to transport them, or they were taking the cars outright.

The text of the flyer follows:

We will accompany these people. It is regretful that there are no institutions in Honduras that can support us to avoid that the migrants do not lose their orientation, or fall into danger. Let us at least support their exit. We decry the terrible situation we are living in inside Honduras: unemployment, insecurity, poverty. And those we protest against persecute us or shoot live rounds.

In a tweet, Pitaya Queen blames the fire at the Caritas refugee shelter as being started by trans-phobes. PQ asked fans to contact US border authorities, asking that the gays should be taken in because their lives were at risk. PQ's tweets are written in very good English. The shelter took in over 35 gays in May of 2018.

Mujica presented credentials showing dual citizenship in the US and another country.

La Verdad De La Caravana LGBT - Pitaya Queen La Historia - Sin Pelos En La Lenga

Run time: 4 minutes

Notes: Video from November 17, 2018.

This report exposes the leader of the LGBT caravan that incited unrest in Playas De Tijuana, when a group of 80 moved into an expensive rental house.

Pitaya Queen (also known as Ana K.) is a transvestite citizen of the United States with residence in Texas. She is accused of transporting gay people through Mexico into the US for the purposes of prostitution.

Previously, she transported a group of gays into Mexico in May of 2018.

She is described as a drug addict.

She was in the Caritas refugee center in May, which mysteriously caught fire.

One of her wards was Roxanne, a gay who died of HIV due to lack of treatment.

While at a drug rehabilitation center in Tijuana, she was caught using drugs and making attempts to smuggle gays across the border.

Speculation is that the rent for the lavish Playas home was paid for by people in the US, who are working to get her and her wards across the border, for prostitution.

Her real name is Roberto Flotte Jr. She has a doctorate from Harvard University for Native American Program.

Informe De La DEA Sobre Riebeling Y Periodistas De BC Dan Su Opinion - Personajes Mexico

Run time: 23 minutes

Notes: This report centers on Ivan Mariano Martin Del Campo Riebeling, a personality who emerged during the protests against Honduran invasion on Sunday, November 14th in Tijuana, Mexico. Riebeling has a checkered past.

Riebeling is accused of threatening reporters. He has been investigated in Mexico and detained in the US.

In March 2018, an article in Quadratin asserts the DEA has investigated him. Riebeling has been arrested 6 times in the US, going back to 1997. In 1997, the Border Patrol arrested him for possession of a controlled substance; 9 to 10 pounds of marijuana. He was released for lack of evidence. In 1999, the Border Patrol detained him for trying to enter the US illegally. Riebeling gave a false statement and was deported immediately. In 1999 again, he was arrested in Chula Vista and again deported. In 2007, Chula Vista police arrested him for carrying a stolen, concealed weapon. In 2008, the DEA in San Ysidro arrested him for assault, robbery and rape. He was sentenced to 48 months in prison. In 2009, a San Diego sheriff arrested him for making threats.

Riebeling has made several threats to a Tijuana reporter, admitting that he has had several clashes with the law, and because of them, he is not a supporter of human rights.

Several reporters claim he has threatened them. One reporter claims that Riebeling sells weapons to malicious people. He has also threatened Tijuana Mayor Gastelum.

Riebeling presents himself as a National Coordinator for Human Rights, but this post does not exist. Another group he claims to lead is the Diplomatic Corps of International Human Rights.

He has even claimed to be a reporter of the Tijuana periodical Zeta. Zeta calls him an impostor who has never worked for them.

Even worse, he appears in a picture dressed up as a church-affiliated Knights Templar. The organization states they expelled Riebeling in 2017, for actions contrary to those of the organization.

The United Nations has stated that he has nothing to do with this man.

Starting at 12:45, video testimony is presented showing about two dozen Mexican reporters who state that Riebeling has threatened them. Riebeling is using social media such as Facebook to defame the reporters.

At the end of the video, Riebeling himself threatens to rape or cause bodily harm to reporters, going as far as to say he will go to their houses.

El Plan De Soros Y Maduro Para Evitar Intervencion - Informativo G24

Run time: 16 minutes.

Notes: Video from Mid November.

The second wave of migrants had just entered Mexico.

This is following Trump’s vague reference to an October Surprise or a Red October, which these journalists believe meant military intervention into Venezuela.

From an interview with Venezuelan journalist Gustavo Azucar Alcalá: Nobody doubts that Venezuela funded the first caravan out of Honduras. US VP Pence has proof that financial support came from Venezuela. Part of the reasoning for fomenting the caravans is to draw attention away from the mass exodus of Venezuelans leaving that country. International attention was focused on president Maduro. Trump and Pence put the idea of US military intervention on the table.

Maduro’s Venezuela claims it does not have money for health or education, or other social issues. It does have money for propaganda against the US, including sending money to Cuba, or to purchase weapons from Russia. Venezuela is linked with drug cartels. Money magically appears when defending president Maduro from scrutiny.

Thousands of children are dying in Venezuela, due to poor health care.

Over 6,000 medical professionals have left Venezuela due to low wages.

6,000 to 8,000 Venezuelan refugees enter Colombia every day.

A large amount of Colombia's drugs enter Venezuela through the rebel groups ELN and FARC. From Venezuela, they are flown or shipped to Honduras, before they are moved through Mexico.

This interview has a lot of pro-Colombian right wing bias.

Run time: 10 minutes.

Notes: Video from Late November. The Fake News headline is March Threatened.

Shows the protest at Benito Juarez sports complex. Tijuana protesters are called xenophobes and racists. The reporter claims a small number of agents provocateur are in the crowd. Some members of the crowd are said to have also participated in the protests in Playas De Tijuana, and that they are against the Tijuana police, which is completely untrue. Video evidence shows the invaders attacked Tijuana police with rocks at Playas.

The reporter claims violent Trump supporters and dual citizens are among the crowd inciting trouble. This is also untrue. People in Tijuana are angry, and they did push against the police and barricades, but they only Trump supporter I witnessed was Paloma For Trump, a woman from Tijuana who is a dual citizen.

The reporter falsely states that Mexicans are throwing rocks at police. Later he states that protesters are hiding their faces (8 minutes in), while clearly no protesters before the camera have their faces hidden.

At least 3 times in this report, the reporter calls Mexicans xenophobes and racists, when both Mexicans and Hondurans are Latinos.

One of the worst claims is that most of Tijuana approves of the invasion, when polls show 70% are against it.

The UN Is Trying To Ruin The World - James Munder

Run time: 10 minutes.

Notes: Video from Late November.

An article from Neon Nettle, dated November 24, reads 'Hungary Slams UN Migration Pact For Trying To Legalise Illegal Immigration'

Hungarian foreign minister Peter Sijarto states that Hungary will vote against the UN pact in December (on the 10th and 11th, in Marrakesh, Morocco). The UN is a global initiative pushing for mandatory resettlement quotas. The pact is called The Global Compact On Migration. It threatens the sovereignty of nations and their borders.

The compact claims not to be legally binding, but Dutch MEP official Marcel De Graaff states 'It is still the legal framework on which the participating countries commit themselves to build.'

In other news George Soros sues Hungary for going against his Open Borders policy.

The pact claims migration is a human right. It allows for countries that refuse illegal migration to be criticized. Criticism could be called Hate Speech, as we are seeing in the situation in Mexico.

'It will become impossible to criticize Merkel's 'welcome migrants' politics without being at risk to be jailed for hate speech.' De Graaff added.

Germany's Angela Merkel proposed that countries should be prepared to give up control over their borders to the European Union.

Again, criticism of migration will become a criminal offense. This includes media outlets that show examples of criticism. People will no longer be able to say that mass migration taxes a government's welfare systems, or that migration leads to a surge of rape and murder.

Only the US, Australia and Hungary have indicated they will not sign the pact.

This time, they say the mess at the border started off as a peaceful march, where the invaders were showing their appreciation for the way Tijuana embraced them. In frustration, these people tried to rush across the border, where US defenses used rubber bullets and tear gas on them. Notice there is no mention of how the caravan leaders agitated this. Also not mentioned is the fact that caravan leaders deliberately put women and children at the front of the invasion.

The INM announced it would deport as many as 500 lawbreakers.

3,000 Immigrants Have Disappeared In Tijuana - King DragonKraken

Run time: 11 minutes.

Notes: Video from December 5.

During the transportation of migrants from Juarez sports complex to Matamoros, apparently 3,000 invaders have gone missing. We see an image of the American flag hung upside down at Juarez complex.

The official count of invaders: 3,877 men, 1,127 women 542 boys and 516 girls, for a total of 6,062. These are the numbers for INSIDE the sports complex, and not for the migrants who were camped outside on the streets.

Only 2,122 people made it to the new refugee center, with approximately 744 left on the streets surrounding the complex. Halfway houses and churches took in another 144.

An estimated 600 invaders were returned to their countries, including 178 deported and 409 that asked to be returned, according to the secretary general of Baja California.

Mexican officials are down-playing how many migrants have disappeared, calling it a clerical error.

The invaders have complained that the new refugee center is too far from the border, again hinting that they are not in Tijuana to apply for asylum, but to enter the US illegally.

Sergio Tamai, director of Angels Without Borders, states that Tijuana officials deliberately inflated the numbers so they could ask for greater federal funds. Supposedly, the city requested a hundred million pesos.

Tijuana mayor Juan Gastelum has stated it is costing his city 550,000 pesos per day to maintain the migrants at Juarez complex.
